"SALTLESS NAVY" BUSY

THE U. S. Navy Rhine River Patrol—300 miles from the nearest salt water—was visited by Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas during his recent tour of Europe.

RAdm. Bertram J. Rodgers, USN, Commander U. S. Naval Forces in Europe, accompanied the Secretary from USAREUR headquarters at Wiesbaden to the Secretary Thomas expressed his pleasure at seeing one sharp, shipshape installation and what is probably one of the Navy's most unusual activities. His host at Shierstein was Capt. G. P. Unmacht, USN, commander of the USNRRPAT.

The base is near the north end of the American sector of the Rhine which extends about 120 miles from Lauterbourg in the south to Lorch in the north. The French patrol other sectors above and below the U. S. sector. In addition to the

Concurrent Travel Seen for 10th Division;
USAREUR Housing in Germany Improving

So great has been the progress in family housing in Germany, present indications are that when the 10th Infantry Division replaces the 1st Infantry Division there next Summer suitable quarters will be available so that concurrent travel can be authorized for everyone eligible.

The crack 1st Infantry is located in USAREUR's Northern Area Command with headquarters at Wurzburg, and

Lower Draft Calls

Lower draft calls beginning in the Spring or Summer of 1955 now appear a good possibility.

The reason is the recent upturn in Army enlistments and reenlistments, coupled with a similar trend in the Air Force.

Much will depend on whether or not the Navy is able to raise its re-up rate and thereby avert the threat of Selective Service.

Pentagon authorities say that it is still too early to make firm forecasts, but there is reason to believe that draft calls may dip by about 10 per cent next year.

Meantime, the Army has asked for 23,000 men for induction in January, the same number as has been asked for many months.

Both the Army and Air Force, now recruiting separately, are pleased with results during the past several months in obtaining new recruits on a voluntary basis.

Reserve Forces Plan
Ready For Release

The new Reserve Forces plan, with widespread ramifications in politics, personnel planning and budgeting, will be made public shortly.

It is reported that the Defense Department has at last completed a detailed proposal to implement the President's early-year demand for action to strengthen the Reserve Forces.

Details will not be disclosed, however, until the White House is briefed and gives the Pentagon the green light. That may be done momentarily, however, since it will be essential that the plan—certain to be controversial—is unveiled in the best possible light.

The fear among some Pentagon officials is that the plan will be made known piecemeal.

It is obvious that the Administration must take steps to brief the varied in-

Housing Loan Rules
Ready For Field

The Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps were rushing to completion late this week detailed regulations which will permit thousands of Servicemen with at least two years' service to apply for new home loan benefits.

Release of regulations to the field, promised by 15 Nov., is expected to have a substantial impact on the U. S. home building industry.

The upcoming rules, based on the Defense Department directive, published in full in THE JOURNAL of 23 Oct., will authorize issuance of eligibility certificates by commanders at all echelons where personnel records are maintained. This will speed action in processing requests for certificates, which an individual must obtain in order to approach the FHA for the 4½ per cent loans, which may be made up to 95 per cent of assessed value, with a ceiling of $17,100.

It is believed that all of the regulations will state that in issuing the first certificate to an individual a statement that the Serviceman "requires housing" will be accepted as reason enough for certification in most cases, although additional

MATS May Lose Overseas Airmail Task
To Civil Carriers In Top-Level Study

High-level Government negotiations are under way looking to the possibility of taking overseas military airmail delivery away from the Military Air Transport Service and placing it instead in the hands of civil air carriers.

A Defense Department spokesman said late this week that a formal directive to this effect has not yet been issued, but reported that "the matter is currently under active study."

MATS flew about 20,000 tons of mail to servicemen around the world during fiscal year 1954.

A Defense Department official said that inter-agency negotiations concerning possible transfer to commercial carriers of MATS airmail are being conducted for three major reasons:

1. Such an action would be in line with the Administration's objective of eliminating competition between the Defense Department and private enterprise.

2. It could result in better service.

3. The additional mail for the commercial carriers would reduce airline subsidy costs.

On the other hand, many military observers express concern that the loss of the mail responsibility for servicemen overseas could handicap the global D-day MATS readiness program, since "know how" would be lost.

In this connection, Lt. Gen. Joseph Smith, USAF, who commands MATS declared recently:

"In our limited flying we haul military passengers and military cargoes to military destinations. We have to do this to exercise the system. We cannot achieve the same results nor be assured of a working system if we fly empty airplanes.

"We must handle real passengers and real cargoes, in order to develop the techniques and procedures that will be effective in emergencies."

General Smith, speaking to the National Defense Transportation Association on 27 October, emphasized that "in order to meet wartime requirements, we must have the hard core of a military air transport force in being at all times. This hard core," he continued, "must consist of trained personnel, equipment, route complexes and support force activities which must be molded together into a workable system."

General Smith said MATS has no intention of competing with the civil air carriers, and pointed out that MATS planes are used at a rate of less than four hours per day per plane.

Some military officials believe that the loss of the overseas airmail cargo now carried by MATS — much is currently flown also by civil carriers—would be a threat to the MATS D-Day training program.

They fear that a point may be raised that MATS flights should be curtailed because of the decrease in cargo, aside from the loss of on-the-job experience in moving mail to overseas destinations.

The current proposal to transfer large amounts of MATS airmail to civil carriers obviously involves at least three Government agencies—the Defense Department, Post Office and Civil Aeronautics Board, with the Budget Bureau certainly also involved.

"This low rate," he said, "simply keeps our system alive and ready for emergencies without unduly taxing our national economy. Actually, it is cheaper in the long run for us to fly our transports than it is to put them into storage, if that were feasible, awaiting a national emergency."

Reserve Forces Plan Slated For Release

interested parties in order to prevent, if possible, difficulties during Capitol hearings next year.

Though there is controversy within the Pentagon itself, that can be contained. For example, there are reports that the Army is dissatisfied with indications that the Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps will be able to enlist men directly into the Reserve.

The Army fears that by this procedure the other Services may "skim the cream" of the available manpower pool. However, once that issue is resolved, it should be relatively quiet.

This will not be the case, however, with civilian officials who are interested in the Reserve Forces problem. Among others, the State Governors will need to be "filled-in" most carefully, since there is every reason to believe the plan will provide for some changes in the relationship of National Guard units to the Federal Government.

Furthermore, the National Guard Association and Reserve Officers Association, will insist on advance information before Congressional hearings begin.

GEN. RIDGWAY EXPOUNDS GROUND DOCTRINE

Last week's issue of THE JOURNAL contained a synopsis of the views on Air Doctrine, as advanced by Lt. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, USAF, commander of the Air University. Related remarks were delivered by General Matthew B. Ridgway, USA, in an address on 9 Nov. at Flint, Mich.

Here are excerpts from the Chief of Staff's address:

"Wars are fought, not for control of the seas or control of the air. These are but intermediate steps toward attainment of the final objective. That final objective is control of land and of the people living on it. Control of essential land areas is vitally necessary to the effective exercise of sea and air power, since sea power is dependent upon the continued use of land bases, and air forces upon the continued availability of landing fields. I scarcely need point out, however, the essential role of sea and air power in modern war, particularly in our case, with a continent to defend and world-wide Allies to support. Yet, I do wish to put in clear and proper perspective the vital role of land power and the decisive instruments of land power—ground forces or armies—in the sum total of armed strength.

"The more land an aggressive force controls, the more sea, air, and land power it can sustain. With the land comes the food for the armed force, the steel and coal to forge its weapons, the oil to power its engines of war, the industrial capacity to enlarge its warmaking potential, the manpower to labor for its aggrandizement. Moreover, with conquered land comes space to add depth to the defense of an aggressor's homeland from retaliation."

Housing Loan Rules Ready For Field

proof may be required in some instances.

The regulations are expected to state that the home which the Serviceman wants to purchase need not be located in the vicinity of his present duty station.

Thus, a person may buy a home at a place where he wishes to retire or where he may desire to provide a home for his family while he is on duty at another location.

Provision will be made also for the issuance of additional certificates under certain situations, as for example when reassignment creates a new housing hardship, for reasons of health, or where unusual circumstances would place the Serviceman in a position which will adversely affect his performance of military duties unless a new certificate were issued.

However, under no circumstances will an additional certificate be issued until it has been determined the Service is no longer liable for the ½ per cent mortgage insurance premium payment.

The forthcoming regulations will spell out procedures to insure that the certificates are not abused and that they are not used for speculative purposes.

The certificates are expected to be valid for 12 months from date of issue, unless eligibility terminates earlier.

A Serviceman becomes ineligible for Government payment of the mortgage insurance premiums by reasons of:

- Death.
 - Discharge or separation unless reenlistment is made the next day.
 - Retirement.
 - Being dropped from the rolls.
 - Termination of ownership of property covered by loan or other termination of eligibility.
- At the Serviceman's request.

WMSC Chief's Eagles Are Kept "On Duty"

Eagles worn by each chief of the Women's Medical Specialist Corps are becoming a tradition with that branch of the Army Medical Service. The insignia are passed on from the outgoing to the incoming administrator.

The eagles pinned on the shoulders of Col. Harriet S. Lee, recently sworn in as Chief of the Women's Medical Specialist Corps by Maj. Gen. George E. Armstrong, The Army Surgeon General, were the same pair which had been worn by her two predecessors.

Col. Emma Vogel, now retired and residing in Florida, wore them as the first Chief of the WMSC in 1947. The insignia were passed on to Col. Nell Wickliffe, who retired from the Army in October and now also resides in Florida.

New Life Jacket Hits The Fleet

A new type of life preserver has been designed to replace the "leftover" B-4 preservers now in use throughout the Navy.

The recently developed life jacket, a modified British Admiralty type CO₂ inflatable, is now stocked in the Navy General Stores system, and will be issued to all ships as the old type wears out.

Carried in a compact pouch on the small of the back, the new preserver permits the wearer to perform his normal duties in comfort. It is also advantageous since it will automatically turn the wearer on his back and keep his head above the surface when he is in the water.

At the present time, the Navy's Bureau of Ships is conducting experiments aimed at further improving the new life preserver. One of the projects under study is the development of an automatic inflating device which will be tripped when an unconscious man sinks between four and six feet below the water.

The CO₂ life jackets now in stock are colored blue-grey; in all future procurement, however, the color will be changed to scarlet munselle red to increase visibility. All the jackets are equipped with pin-on lights and whistles.

The preserver consists of a single buoyancy chamber made of neoprene coated nylon, a carbon dioxide inflator, an oral inflation valve and tube, a lifting harness, a waist belt, a toggle line, and a pouch. The CO₂ cylinder inflates the preserver to a buoyancy of 30 pounds.

The complete preserver is designed to be carried in a pouch attached to the webbing waist belt which is easily rotated about the middle to get the preserver into a ready position.

A lifting harness, made of a single piece of one-inch webbing that is fastened at its ends to each side of the waist belt buckle, permits the wearer to be hoisted from the water.

When the preserver is donned for inflation, the attachment of the lifting harness on the waist belt is located at the small of the back and the harness passes under the arms, across the chest, and through the neck opening of the preserver. A toggle line, fitted to the waist belt, allows the wearer to be attached to a boat or to other survivors.

The complete unit costs about $20.00.

Former Air Colonel To Supreme Court

A former Air Force colonel, Judge John Marshall Harlan has been nominated by President Eisenhower for appointment to the Supreme Court.

Colonel Harlan served with the USAF from 1943 to 1945 as Chief of the Operations Analysis Section, 8th Air Force, in England. He was decorated for his wartime services with the Legion of Merit, the French Croix de Guerre, and the Croix de Guerre of Belgium.

URGES 25% MILITARY PAY HIKE

A 25 per cent pay increase for Air Force personnel and a restoration of fringe benefits has been urged by Representative Victor Wickersham (D-Okla.), after a visit to several Strategic Air Command bases.

"This would establish the Air Force as a worthwhile career, and reduce the number of men leaving the service," Mr. Wickersham said.

"I am more than ever convinced that our whole national security is closely tied to strategic air power," the Congressman said, in stressing the importance of retaining the higher type of men in the Air Force.

"We should pay our airmen who are indispensable to air power as much as industry will pay them," Mr. Wickersham declared.

The congressman also pointed to lack of adequate housing on bases, and stressed the necessity for congressional lifting of roadblocks to housing construction.

SAC's Dependents Assistance Program, operated on a volunteer basis by Air Force wives, was praised by Mr. Wickersham as one example of Air Force initiative in doing much, "within the limits of its resources," to take care of its own.

"Strategic Air Command has a number of aggressive programs underway to provide better recreational facilities for its bachelor airmen," Mr. Wickersham said, referring to other Air Force actions to meet the re-enlistment problem.

Army's "Gyroscope" Will Start Rolling With Concurrent Travel For 10th Division

continuous combat efficiency but to be a real boost in morale and esprit de corps.

The fact that total housing is available and the likelihood that concurrent travel will be authorized gets "Operation Gyroscope" divisional rotation off to an auspicious start.

The 1st Division, with its proud fighting history, already has a most enviable record and high esprit — attested to by the fact that 50 per cent of its personnel have elected to make the Army their careers by becoming Regulars.

Recently when the 1st returned from field maneuvers, a virtually unprecedented welcome was given them by the German populace. At Würzburg they were met on the road and escorted to the town hall where they were given speeches of welcome by the city officials.

A great deal of the housing in the area to be occupied by the 10th is new and in excellent condition. In fact, housing recently completed and others to be completed by July add 486 units in Würzburg, 882 units at Schweinfurt, and 396 units at Bamberg.

General William M. Hoge, USA, USAREUR Commander-in-Chief, told THE JOURNAL that housing has been his number one problem and hence has been the subject of a continuous effort. General Hoge places this great emphasis on family housing, he said, for three important reasons:

First, concurrent travel depends on their being suitable housing available. "I believe," he said, "that people in the Services have as much right to have their families with them as any other class of citizens—they should not be placed in a second class category by being denied this right."

Second, the availability of adequate housing puts the United States into a more economical position. Present housing in Germany is being built by the German government as part of the occupation costs, and when completed may continue to be used by the United States after the treaty goes into effect. Between $47- and $48-millions a year are now being charged off to commutation of quarters (this sum is computed after deducting the cost of maintaining the buildings).

Third, General Hoge wants to get his people out of the requisitioned houses so that they may be returned to the German people. He hopes to complete this transition by the middle of next year.

The vast progress in USAREUR's housing program is shown by the figures: 19,366 units have been completed; an additional 19,894 are scheduled for completion by 30 May 1955, and 1,400 more by October 1955.

Great relief has been provided by the Hoge Plan under which Service personnel whose families are entitled to travel but for whom no regular quarters are then available may bring their families over and rent facilities on the German economy until government quarters are ready. However, at this time only 1,400 families are now living under the Hoge Plan and quarters for most of them will soon be available.

USAREUR's biggest housing problems are in France where 30,000 to 35,000 personnel man the Zone of Communications, and in the Western Area Command where the big build-up — virtually a crash program—came after the close of the Korean war.

The situation in France stems from the scarcity of adequate houses in the vicinity of Army establishments and the failure of the recently enacted Government Assistance Program to give any appreciable help. Under the latter plan if French builders construct quarters to U. S. standards we will guarantee 95 per cent occupancy for five years. However, French builders have not rushed to this opportunity for they do not believe five years enough guarantee and most of the buildings would not be so located as to attract French tenants if we pulled out.

In the Western area Command, under Maj. Gen. Miles Reber, USA, the problem is complicated by the fact that it is in the French Zone, and all negotiations with the Germans must be conducted through the French authorities, thus slowing down progress. But even there considerable advances have been made and the outlook is improving.

Along with housing in Germany, USAREUR has also gone ahead with schools for Service children, theaters, recreation centers, post exchanges, commissaries, etc., so that family life in this vital but far-from-home line of defense has made steady improvements since the U. S. Army moved in in 1945.

AF HAS "WASH OUT" COURSE

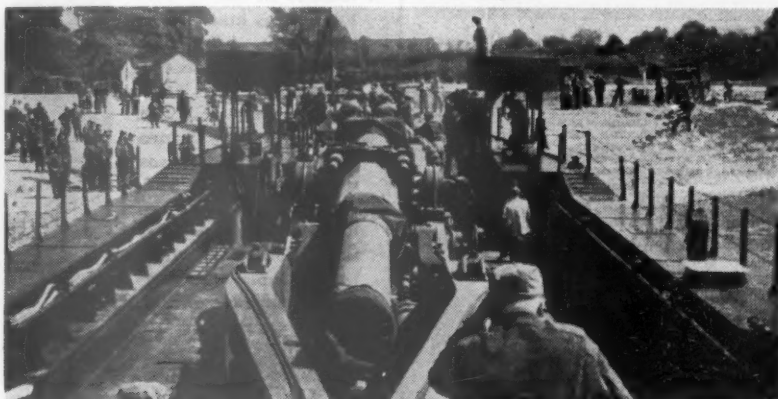

The Air Force's first course in the operation of laundry machines has begun at Keesler AFB, La. Fourteen students are enrolled in the 25-day course. A new class will enter training every 10 days.

The course will be divided into two parts: theory, which will be studied in classrooms, and the practical training at the base laundry.

The new laundry course will be under the overall supervision of Maj. Merle A. Wagaman, director of the Radio Operating Department. Senior instructor will be M/Sgt. George Casey, who recently returned from Thule Air Base in Greenland where he was base laundry and dry cleaning supervisor.

"Saltless Navy" Undergoes Rhine Review

ATOMIC DELIVERY—Landing craft of the U. S. Navy Rhine River Patrol delivers one of the Army's 280mm. artillery pieces. In this operation, six of the atomic cannons were transported across the Rhine. Patrol personnel participate in Army maneuvers about once every two months as part of the over-all NATO readiness training.

headquarters and Unit "S" at Schierstein, the U. S. Navy also has a base, Unit "K," at Karlsruhe near the southern end, and Unit "M" at Sandhofen, near Mannheim. The Schierstein base is completely equipped for repair and overhaul of engines, vessels and equipment.

The patrol is primarily a tactical arm and is responsible for the security of the U. S. Zone of Germany along the Rhine and for the water communications of the U. S. and NATO forces.

It also checks all commercial vessels and logs them as to type and nationality. More than 8,000 were recorded last year.

The patrol is working constantly with the U. S. Army and Air Force, assisting them in their maneuvers and exercises. In recent exercises the patrol ferried more than 13,000 personnel across the Rhine, more than 500 tanks, 133 artillery pieces, and 4,800 miscellaneous vehicles. It has frequently transported the Army's huge 280-mm atomic cannon.

In addition, shore based personnel of the patrol, led by Captain Unmacht and his executive officer, Capt. W. R. Gebert, USN, take to the field with the Army in command post exercises. These take place about once every two months.

The Navy also carries amphibious boats with the Army on its maneuvers, ready to take men and supplies across the many rivers of Europe.

Admiral Rodgers told THE JOURNAL that it is the Navy's prime function in Germany to assist and work with the Army in every possible way. "It is a welcome duty," he said, "for the U. S. Army in Europe is a finely trained, crack force, ever ready for combat."

In addition to the Rhine River Patrol, Admiral Rodgers also has under his command the Navy's installations and vessels at Bremerhaven. An important activity there is mine sweeping. The U. S. Naval Advanced base there is commanded by Capt. J. G. McLaughry, USN.

Both the Rhine Patrol and the Bremer-haven operations make heavy use of German personnel. Many of these served in the former German units, but an increasing number is being drawn from young Germans anxious for a career at sea. In many instances German crews and officers are in complete control of vessels on patrol or on mine sweeping details. They are not, however, permitted to operate vessels equipped with guns or automatic weapons.

When the new Germany Navy provided under the London agreement gets underway, it is likely that large numbers of the American trained German seamen and officers will be taken in. U. S. leaders hope that this will be done, for they feel that their work with the combined fleets will be greatly facilitated by their American training. On the other hand, they also hope that they will not all go over to the German navy at once, but rather in increments, for they are a valuable part of our activities and we would rather have a transition period during which we can recruit and train more Germans to take their places.

The U. S. seamen serving with our units in Germany are a hand-picked group. All have asked for the duty and then are thoroughly screened before being assigned. Each man picked must have had a conduct score of 4.0 (perfect) for at least one year prior to selection.

Like other U. S. Forces in Germany, the Rhine River Patrol has done much to help the German people. Recently when LCDr. M. J. Gates was detached for duty in the States the Oberbürgermeister of Karlsruhe sent an official letter thanking him for the help and cooperation he had frequently given to the German people there. Also recently Captain Unmacht received a letter from a Catholic priest expressing appreciation for the use of a navy crane and bulldozer which helped in the rebuilding of their church and playground. These are instances which are multiplied many times over during the year.

Refueling Proficiency

The Air Force has released Unit Training Standard 20-41, which establishes proficiency standards to be attained and maintained by air refueling squadrons.

It was stated that a squadron will not be considered "combat ready" unless 70 per cent of authorized combat crews have attained the specified proficiency standards.

Services O.K. Details Of Censorship Plan

A 49-page directive setting up new military censorship regulations for personal mail has been published in a joint directive.

Designed to achieve uniform censorship rules and to establish equality of censorship treatment, the new regulations apply to personnel of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Air Force and to civilians serving with or accompanying them.

The main objective of the program is to prevent the transmission of information which might give aid or comfort to the enemy, and at the same time to obtain and disseminate information which might assist the U. S. and her allies in the successful prosecution of a war.

For the Army, the directive is SR 390-80-1; for the Navy, OpNav Instruction 5530.6; and for the Air Force, AFR 205-30.

Lt. Col. George D. Jacobson, USA, executive officer of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment, will leave Ft. Knox, Ky., late this month for a new assignment in Saigon, IndoChina, where he will serve in a military advisory capacity.

Chap. Who Died in POW Camp Awarded Medal

The Legion of Merit has been awarded posthumously to an Army chaplain who defied Communist captors while a prisoner in Korea, and helped to maintain a low death rate among his fellow prisoners.

Chaplain (Capt.) Emil J. Kapaun, a Roman Catholic priest, won the award for exceptionally meritorious service performed while a prisoner of war at Pyoktong, Korea, from 1950 until he died a year later. He was attached to the 8th Cavalry Regiment of the 1st Cavalry Division in Korea.

The award cited Chaplain Kapaun for his aid to fellow prisoners, although seriously ill himself, in seeking food and clothing for them, conducting services, and helping interned doctors. He considered no menial task beneath him, and his courageous actions helped materially in reducing the death rate among other prisoners, and in spiritually steeling them against Communist instructions and indoctrination.

During WW II, Captain Kapaun served as an Army Chaplain in the C-B-I theatre. Separated from the service in 1946, he returned to active duty two years later, and was assigned to the Far East in 1950. Among the other awards which Chaplain Kapaun earned in Korea are the Distinguished Service Cross and the Bronze Star Medal.

Col. Dwight Hamersley Named PubInfo Chief

Col. Dwight T. Hamersley, USA, has been named Third Army Public Information Officer by Lt. Gen. A. R. Rollins, USA, Commander.

Colonel Hamersley, who has served with the Adjutant General's Section of the headquarters for the past 17 months as Executive Officer and later, Deputy Adjutant General, succeeds Lt. Col. William F. Nee, USA, who retires from active service on 30 Nov.

Colonel Hamersley's assignments prior to joining Third Army included service in Europe, Hawaii, Eniwetok, Korea and Japan, and two tours of duty with the Department of the Army. During his Korean service he was assigned as Secretary of the General Staff of the United Nations Delegation at the Korean Armistice Conference. He brings to his new assignment a background of related experience gained as a liaison officer with the Office of the Chief of Legislative Liaison, Department of the Army.

Together with his wife, the former Mary Elizabeth Finnell of Winchester, Ky., and their two daughters, Misses Dixianne and Kitty Lynn, the Colonel lives in post quarters at Fort McPherson.

New speedster

that can "crawl" without "stall"

Powered by a dependable Lycoming engine, this executive plane cruises above 150 mph—yet lands at 30 mph.

Now you can fly at 30 mph—with no danger of spin or stall. Take off and land in the "backyard" space of 75 yards. And fly completely relaxed in the knowledge that your power plant is a dependable Lycoming air-cooled engine.

Small wonder the Helio Aircraft Corporation expects its advanced design plane to open up a new era in private flying.

Naturally, we are proud that once again Lycoming contributes to aviation progress. Perhaps we can also help meet your need for air-cooled power.

Whatever your problem . . . if it can be solved by any of the services listed with our signature . . . look to Lycoming.

10 Ships, Two Units Win Commendations

Secretary Charles S. Thomas has awarded Navy Unit Commendations to 10 ships and two units for their participation in the Korean War.

Those commended and their dates of participation are:

USS Cacapon—8 Aug. to 27 Dec. 1950.
USS Graffias—23 Sept. to 30 Dec. 1950, and 23 June 1952 to 9 March 1953.
USS Grasp—1 Feb. to 15 Oct. 1951.
USS Henrico—15 Sept. to 25 Dec. 1950.
USS Kite—18 to 29 July, and 15 to 26 Nov. 1950.
USS Mount Katmai—18 Aug. to 28 Dec. 1950.
USS Murrelet—10 through 31 May 1952.
USS Noble—15 Sept. to 25 Dec. 1950.
USS Osprey—16 April to 19 May, and 12 to 15 Oct. 1952.
USS RedHead—7 May to 5 June, 12 Aug., to 8 Sept., and 12 to 15 Oct. 1952.

Also commended was Minesweeping Boat Division One from 7 to 30 April, 7 Aug. to 2 Sept., and from 12 to 15 Oct. 1952; and Task Element 90.32, which consisted of LST's 799, 857, 859, 883, 898, 914, 973 and 975, from 16 through 16 Sept. 1950.

USS Atka To Visit Antarctic

The Navy icebreaker Atka, commanded by Cdr. Glen Jacobsen, USN, will leave Boston 1 December for the Antarctic.

Scheduled to return to Boston on 14 April 1955, the Atka will remain in the vicinity of Little America for about two and one-half months. Her mission is to gather information for extensive Antarctic expeditions slated for 1957, the international geophysical year, Naval officials said.

PEER AT PERISCOPE—The smashed top of a periscope changes hands as Lcdr. W. O. Hudson II, USN, Commanding Officer of the USS TORO (SS-422), left, presents a plaque bearing the "eye" of the submarine to Lt. Charles O. Paddock, USN, in honor of his marksmanship in a practice bombing. The patrol bomber pilot was flying 225 miles an hour when he spotted the sub's periscope during an anti-submarine drill off the Maine coast last May. He dropped a 13-pound practice bomb and hit the periscope, a target only three inches in diameter, square on the head. The presentation was made at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard, N. H.

USN Slates Command Shifts For Four RADMs.

RAdm. Charles C. Hartman, USN, Commander, Destroyer Force, Atlantic Fleet, has been named to the post of Commandant, 11th Naval District, with Headquarters at San Diego, Calif.

He will succeed RAdm. George C. Dyer, USN, in January 1955. Orders have not yet been issued for Admiral Dyer who has served as 11th ND Commandant since September 1953.

RAdm. Arleigh A. Burke, USN, Commander, Cruiser Division Six, will succeed Admiral Hartman.

At the same time, RAdm. Burton Davis, USN, Commander, Amphibious Command, Pacific, has been named by Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas to be Senior Member, Navy Board of Inspection and Survey, Pacific Coast Section, San Francisco, Calif. He will succeed RAdm. Francis X. McInerney, USN, in January or February 1955. Admiral McInerney was previously ordered to assume the duties as President, General Court Martial Board, 11th Naval District.

RAdm. Albert E. Jarrell, USN, Commander, Destroyer, Flotilla One, will relieve Admiral Davis in January.

Navy Set To Dispose Of Olympia & Oregon

The Navy is preparing to dispose of the relics of two historic ships, the USS Olympia and the USS Oregon.

Donation of the two vessels to a State, territory, other political subdivision of the United States, or to a qualified non-profit corporation or association was authorized by the 83d Congress.

The Navy said this week that both ships are in a deteriorated state and would require extensive repairs by their recipients before they could be used as public memorials.

If no acceptable applications are received, the ships may be sold or scrapped. However, parts of historical interest may be removed and retained by the Navy or transferred to non-profit historical or educational institutions. Other pieces or parts suitable for use as relics, souvenirs or mementos may be sold.

Deadline for applications is 23 Jan. 1955. Applications should be addressed to the Chief, Bureau of Ships, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C.

The Olympia was Admiral Dewey's flagship in the Battle of Manila Bay. She began her long naval career on 5 Feb. 1895 and was placed out of commission in 1922 after an European assignment which ended when she brought home for burial the body of the Unknown Soldier.

The Oregon, which helped defeat Admiral Cervera's fleet at Santiago harbor in 1898 and later carried Marines to Peking during the Boxer Rebellion in 1900 was placed in commission on 15 July 1896 and retired in 1919. Only her hull, deck and bulkheads are intact.

Capt. Gray Heads Depot

Capt. A. M. Gray, SC, USN, has been named to succeed Capt. Onnie P. Lattu, SC, USN, as Commanding Officer, Naval Supply Depot, U. S. Naval Station, Newport, R. I.

Captain Lattu, who has been in command of the depot since September 1952, will assume new duties at the Ships Parts Control Center, Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Captain Gray reported to Newport from the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Washington, D. C.

QUITE A FLIGHT

Ensign Duane L. Varner, USN, has probably set some kind of a flying record.

He made a nonstop flight in a F2H2 Banshee jet from Los Alamitos, Cal., to Cecil Field near Jacksonville, Fla., without refueling.

The entire trip, 1900 miles, was made in a craft which has a rated fuel capacity of 800 miles. The Navy says that Ensign Varner left California at 4:46 P.M., E.S.T., and set down at Cecil Field at 8:44 P.M., E.S.T.—an elapsed time of three hours and 58 minutes.

Naval officials account for the surprising trip by assuming that Ensign got into a fast jet stream in perfect flying weather.

In G-E 5-Star Tubes—

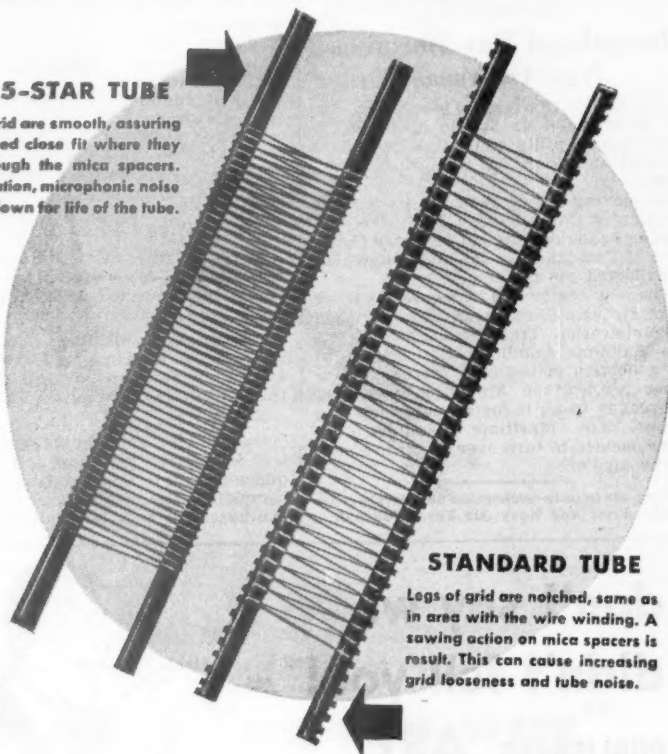

SMOOTH, TIGHT-FITTING GRID LEGS CUT MICROPHONIC NOISE!

G-E 5-Star Tube, shown approx
 1½ times actual size

G-E 5-STAR TUBE

Legs of grid are smooth, assuring a continued close fit where they pass through the mica spacers. Grid vibration, microphonic noise are kept down for life of the tube.

STANDARD TUBE

Legs of grid are notched, same as in area with the wire winding. A sawing action on mica spacers is result. This can cause increasing grid looseness and tube noise.

VIBRATION—an accepted hazard for military electronic equipment—often makes the grids of standard tubes loosen in their micas. Internal tube spacings are affected, and the tubes grow increasingly noisy. Field replacements run high.

Special design of G-E 5-Star Tubes corrects this cause of microphonics. Smooth 5-Star grid legs fit tightly in their spacers; will not loosen from vibration or shocks. Result: tube replacements seldom are needed, and communications or other equipment keeps operating on a no-time-out basis.

Designed . . . built . . . tested for high reliability, G-E 5-Star Tubes keep your electronic-maintenance needs low. Ask for 5-Star Tubes in new equipment! Install them as replacements! Interchange list will be mailed on request. Write General Electric Company, Tube Department, Schenectady 5, New York.

G-E 5-Star Tubes are the most reliable you can install!

Among their many design features are:

- Double mica spacers at both top and bottom brace the internal structure, and enlarge the surfaces in contact with the glass envelope. Result: greater resistance to shocks and vibration.
- To give 5-Star Tubes increased strength, the tube cage is shorter and sturdier and the cathode has been made larger in diameter.
- Getter is double-staked to provide firm connection and support.
- Heater bends are specially coated a second time, to assure uniform insulation and prevent "shorts".
- A getter flash shield keeps conductive deposits off the mica spacers, in tubes where plate-grid leakage must be held to a minimum. Special slots in the spacers further decrease leakage.
- Critical grids are gold or silver-plated to minimize grid emission.

U. S. Air Force

Nominations Go To Senate, Include 80 AF Gens.

Eighty-five military nominations—mostly Air Force—went to the Senate this week as it reassembled to consider censure charges against Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wisc.).

Heading the list were three new members of the Pentagon secretariat now serving in recess appointments: Assistant Secretary of Defense Carter L. Burgess, Assistant Secretary of the Air Force David S. Smith and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Albert Pratt.

Confirmation also was asked for two Army officers, Brigadier Generals William E. Potter, CE, and Charles G. Helle, to be members of the Mississippi River Commission.

Air Force nominations included 28 officers to be permanent major generals and brigadier generals and 52 to be temporary one- and two-star officers. Their names were published in the 30 Oct. issue of THE JOURNAL.

It has been announced that the Senate will act on the majority of the nominations received during the special session.

Sheepshead Bay Becomes New Overseas Center

The Air Force overseas processing center is expected to handle about 10,000 personnel monthly when it is moved to Manhattan Beach AF Sta., N. Y., next spring.

By moving the center from its present location at Camp Kilmer, N. J., the processing headquarters will be closer to the Port of Embarkation at Brooklyn, which is expected to step up efficiency.

The new center will be located at what formerly was Sheepshead Bay Maritime Administration Training Station. When the Maritime Administration offered to let a portion of the base for use by another service, the Air Force expressed interest in using it for a new processing center. The Maritime Administration later decided to turn over the entire base to the Air Force.

Two TAC Recon Wings of 12th Air Force Get Martin RB57 Twin Jets in Germany

The RB57, a photo reconnaissance version of the twin jet Canberra night intruder, has been sent overseas to serve with the 12th Air Force in Germany.

Presence in Germany of the fast photo plane was revealed when it showed up in a static display of reconnaissance equipment set up at the second annual Central European Reconnaissance Conference at Spangdahlem. The conference was sponsored by the Allied Air Forces, Central Europe with Air Commo. Peter G. Wykeham-Barnes, RAF, as chairman.

The RB57, manufactured by the Martin Aircraft Co., of Baltimore, Md., will replace some of the old piston engined RB26s now in use by 12th Air Force recon units.

USAFE headquarters stated that the 10th Tac Recon Wing at Spangdahlem and the 66th Tac Recon Wing at Sembach will get the new Canberra jet jobs. The 12th Air Force is commanded by Maj. Gen. Robert M. Lee, USAF, with headquarters at Ramstein.

Attending the three-day reconnaissance conference were representatives of NATO air ministries and air staffs. In addition to the display of modern photographic reconnaissance equipment there were extended discussions of the problems of tactical reconnaissance.

General Lee, who in addition to commanding the 12th Air Force is also commander of the 4th Allied Tactical Air Force, told the delegates that "Aerial reconnaissance has an especially vital part in all military operations. It is essential to have information about enemy targets and to be able to diagnose possible movements of the enemy."

FLYING CAVALRY

Maj. Gen. Dudley D. Hale, USAF, Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations, Allied Air Forces, Central Europe, also stressed the importance of reconnaissance.

"Every time the speed of aircraft or ground forces changes, our job becomes harder," he said in an interview. "We have all been told our forces are not quite in parity with those of our potential enemy. We are in short supply in forces of all kinds; therefore it is most important that we know what the forces are on the other side. The man in contact is generally more successful than his opponent."

"Throughout history, cavalry action has been considered as little battles. Actually they are the big battles. In our day and age the air reconnaissance forces are our light cavalry."

1st Class Begins B-57 Training At Randolph

The first B-57 transition training class is now underway at Randolph AFB, Tex.

Welcomed to the base by Brig. Gen. John W. Persons, USAF, Base Commander, the class has been assigned to the 3515th Combat Crew Training Squadron, commanded by Col. Colin E. Anderson, USAF.

The first B-57s are scheduled to arrive at Randolph next week, but the students will not begin training flights in the plane until mid-December.

Members of the class who already have reported (all pilots) are: Second Lieutenants J. D. Mallamas, W. L. Nelson and D. F. Nendell; First Lieutenants T. C. Thomas, R. M. Joslyn, D. T. Hutchinson, M. F. Graham, J. E. Whelan and J. L. Hartley; Captains C. I. Adams, C. W. Ables, jr., W. S. Todd, jr., W. L. Burke, and B. H. Bunting.

They are expected to be joined this week-end by an equal number of aircraft observers, thus completing the two-man crews for the B-57.

New Security Manual

The Air Force will issue a new Security Indoctrination Manual about 1 January. Tests on "Safeguarding Military Information" will be included in the Manual.

SGT'S PROUD SON—Paul, 6, watches proudly as his father, M/Sgt. Alvin G. Iverson, unpacks the prizes he received for a superior record during a recent Eighth Air Force NCO Academy session. For copping two out of three awards available to the 60-man class, Sergeant Iverson brought home an electric shaver, pen-and-pencil desk set, engraved plaque and a certificate of merit signed by General Curtis E. LeMay, USAF, SAC commander. The sergeant, stationed at Carswell AFB, Tex., works in Eighth AF Headquarters.

Gen. Hardy Heads AF Section, Tokyo MAAG

Brig. Gen. Donald L. Hardy, USAF, has arrived in Tokyo to take over his new duties as Chief of the U. S. Air Force Section of the Military Assistance Advisory Group.

He formerly was assigned as Deputy Assistant for Materiel Program Control at U. S. Air Force Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

Col. Abdalah Top JAG For Tech Tng. Air Force

Col. Ernest G. Abdalah, USAF, has been assigned to Headquarters Technical Training Air Force at Gulfport, Miss., as staff judge advocate.

Colonel Abdalah, a graduate of Harvard University and the Boston University School of Law, entered active military service in 1940 and has served continuously since that time. His last assignment before coming to TTAF was as staff judge advocate at First Air Force Headquarters, Mitchel AFB, N. Y.

USAFE Conducts Vigorous Program To Boost Vital Community Relations

THE vigorous program of community relations the U. S. Air Force in Europe has been conducting may well find solid results in easing the forthcoming transition when West Germany gains its independence.

At its best, the problem is knotty. United States forces have been in Germany for nine years as an occupying power over a conquered people. Military necessity has required the confiscation of property under the laws of war and the requisition of other property needed by our people serving there.

As individuals, the Germans could hardly be expected to be cordial. They are suffering from a severe housing shortage while our people take over some of their best homes.

The Americans, on the other hand, are in a strange land, far from home. They tend to keep to themselves. Unlike Europeans, they do not readily pick up other languages. They have their own problems and their own interests.

The net result of the natural German resentment and our concentration on our own affairs has mitigated against any genuine close understanding at the "folks" level and has led to the Americans really forming communities within communities, separate and apart. Naturally this has not helped solve the problems arising from friction between the two peoples.

Yet, aside from all other considerations, good community relations are vital to efficient military operations and are an important function of command. The U. S. Forces in Europe have made a constant effort to improve them.

In the case of the U. S. Air Forces in Europe it is a widespread and varied problem. USAFE has a total Air Force population of 195,000 spread over 35 countries. These include its own working force of 83,500 military personnel and 2,200 civilians. In addition USAFE is charged with the support of 51,500 military personnel and 57,800 dependents. With its 35,800 "Native Son" employees this brings its total strength to 230,800—and it is still growing.

USAFE covers an area of 17,500,000 million square miles, three times the size of the United States. Its problems of contact with non-Americans are enormous.

Lt. Gen. William H. Tunner, USAFE's commander, has approached his problem from many directions. At the lowest level of contact, he has required airmen and officers, under his jurisdiction, to acquire a basic understanding of the language of the nation in which they are stationed. Everyone who can not demonstrate a knowledge of the fundamentals of the language must take a six weeks' course including 30 hours of class work. This gives at least a working knowledge of the language and a vocabulary of from 800 to 1,000 words. It eases one of the greatest barriers to mutual understanding.

Furthermore, so that all members of the command will have a thorough understanding of why they are there and the problems involved (including community relationships) and what is being done about them, an extensive briefing program has been established. Units being deployed to Europe are briefed before they leave the States. Individuals, as far as possible, are briefed at Camp Kilmer, N. J. Others, including civilians, who were not briefed before going over are briefed after they arrive.

This has been covering commissioned officers and master sergeants; is now extended to all non-commissioned officers, and will soon include all airmen. Wives' groups, too, get frequent talks by officers from headquarters, for they are an important factor in community relationships and do much good for the promotion of better understanding.

Project "Native Son" has had the mul-

ON THE JOB...not "on the way"

To delay such key personnel en route between atomic testing grounds would mean a costly loss in man-hours. That's why they're flown from one important assignment to another, via the Scheduled Airlines—getting them "on the job" five times faster than by slow surface travel!

Another good reason is the economy of air travel, especially when pay and per diem dollars are considered. So, whether you're moving one man or many, call in the Scheduled Airlines representative—compare the costs, speed and dependability of Scheduled flight with any other means of travel!

The Pay Story. The time has now come when the Defense Department should make known to Servicemen around the world its specific intentions with regard to a cost-of-living military pay raise. The White House has spoken out recently on the plan to assure equitable pay consideration for the Government's civilian employees.

As yet, however, the word has not been nearly as explicit with regard to military pay. There have been repeated statements at the Pentagon during recent months, many from Defense Secretary Wilson himself, that military pay is "under study." Now, as was reported in last week's issue of THE JOURNAL, a new and comprehensive pay study has been completed by an Ad Hoc Committee. Unofficial indications are that its recommendations would mean about a 6 per cent pay boost for most military personnel with at least two years service.

But an official statement on Pentagon pay plans still remains to be made. The Services have a right to know whether or not the Defense Department intends to seek actively a cost-of-living pay adjustment, or whether "further study" will be required.

Whatever may be the ultimate decisions on a military pay raise proposal at the Budget Bureau and on Capitol Hill, men and women of the Armed Forces want assurance that their representatives in Washington, namely Mr. Wilson and his associates, are in there fighting on their behalf.

Confusion Compounded. In bygone years, the need for corrective action to equalize Survivor Benefits for all categories of military personnel had been obvious enough. There were glaring discrepancies, which continue, in the benefits provided for Regulars in comparison with Reserves, and, at times, between Reserves of various Services.

At one point, the situation became so distorted that some survivors of Navy and Marine Corps Reservists killed in combat in Korea reportedly were denied certain benefits, which went to other Reservists, for the reason that the Navy technically was not at war in the Far East, although officially still in a state of conflict with Germany.

But now there comes evidence of additional need for prompt remedial action in the area of Survivor Benefits. As has been pointed out in recent issues of THE JOURNAL, and as discussed elsewhere in this issue (P. 330) serious inequities exist in the award of Social Security benefits to military personnel. Some personnel get these benefits; others with identical service do not.

The only solution to the over-all problem of Survivor Benefits is completely new legislation. The proposals advanced by the comprehensive report of the Kaplan Committee provide a solid foundation for discussion on Capitol Hill. Because changes in Survivor Benefit legislation, widely recognized as being the "hodge podge" described by the Kaplan Committee, will involve lengthy hearings, the Defense Department should submit its proposals immediately after the 84th Congress convenes in January.

It must not be forgotten that each day there is delay innocent dependents of military personnel who die on active service will be made to suffer because of the gross inadequacy of current legislation.

Elevate Education. At a time when there is some fear in military quarters that the famed Service educational system may be curtailed, reassuring word comes from the Air University at Maxwell AFB, Ala. At that famed center, the professional education of Air Force officers has been newly elevated with redesignation of the Air Command and Staff School as the Air Command and Staff College.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, in recently calling upon the Service Secretaries to explore the problem of increased stability in officer assignments, suggested the possibility that attendance at schools may be a contributing factor in the frequency of assignment changes. As a result, there has been concern on this matter, which will be alleviated only with the release of the Ad Hoc Committee's findings.

Meantime, however, the Services are doing everything possible to uphold and increase the caliber and prestige of educational facilities at all levels. It was with this objective in mind that

"Perquisite" Is The Word

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

If it comes across the pay table, it's "pay," or an equivalent word. Webster tells us what incidental gains are called: "perquisites." Some of your correspondents have even used the word in leading up to a catchy phrase! It holds no connotation of graft (though graft is a form of perquisite). Or, is the word maybe too hard to pronounce? It shouldn't be—Webster even tells us that.

Leave slogans to the hucksters. We've lived pretty well by the book, so far. Let's not desert Webster now.
MAJOR CHAUVINIST

Burn "Mr. Fringe Benefits"

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Courage, honor and integrity are not the exclusive possessions of men in America's Armed Forces, but they are traits of character with which they have been well endowed throughout the many years of their existence. . . .

For the knowledge, schooling, effort and energy they expend to protect America; for the vigorous training, long separations and, at times, privations they endure, these men are not being overpaid. Nor are they proudly wearing the uniforms of the United States as a passport to charity.

Whenever their salaries and wages are considered—every single item from which they have benefited—medical care, retirement, post exchange privileges—are carefully reviewed and figured as an integral part of the wages members of the Armed Forces of the United States shall receive for the integrity of service rendered "under any and all conditions."

Certain parts of their wages on the surface may be called "benefits" but they are still an integral part of the wages the men of the service receive; still part of a promise made to them by the United States government.

Once this was all considered as part of the traditions and customs of the service. Now? "Fringe Benefits"!—Hmmm.

Fringe! . . . that which denotes frills or flourishes or trimming.

Believe me, there is nothing frilly, or flouncy, about the wages the men of the Armed Forces are receiving. And the only trimming involved—since some of these promised privileges have already been taken away and there is talk that more may go—; the only trimming involved would appear to be that which the men, themselves, may receive.

Moreover, from common usage, the noun "Benefits" has come to mean theatrical performances or other public entertainment to raise money for charity.

There is nothing charitable in keeping a promise or paying men for service received.

We, in the Armed Forces, love our country. We believe in America as a government of persons instead of an administration of things. We believe in our fellow Americans—their leaders, our leaders; their good faith, our good faith.

Because of these things, we believe that the term "Fringe Benefits" should be burned in effigy. We believe that dummies should be made and named "Fringe Benefits"; that military organizations—all over the country—should burn "Mr. Fringe Benefits" in the fires of celebration, because "Mr. Fringe Benefits" has never been a part of the traditions and customs of the service. If, at this time, many of the incentive privileges of the services are to be revitalized, restored and reborn and if a name must be given to them, let's name them "Fidelity Endowments."

Fidelity Endowment?—Why not?

Fidelity is a careful regard for duty; loyal attachment to a principle; reliability.

Endow means to provide with a permanent fund or source of income. Endowment is the act of endowing.

Thus, "Fidelity Endowments" would mean providing a permanent source of income—money or service—to the men of the Armed Forces for their loyal attachment to the principles of America; for their careful regard for duty and their reliability.

Lt. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter, USAF, Air University Commander, won approval for redesignation of the Air Command and Staff School as a College and for the advancement of the Squadron Officer and Command and Staff Courses to the level of "Professional Schools." They are a part of the "College."

General Kuter's explanation of the changes is most pertinent. He said: "The changes are not intended to be a benefit specifically to the United States Air Force, nor primarily for the profession of arms, but rather to improve their contribution to the wisdom, the leadership, and the stature of our country as it faces the great problems and intentions in the world today and in our generation."

Robot Attacks

10 Years Ago—In a joint statement this week, the War and Navy Departments declared that they consider robot bomb attacks on continental United States by Germany "entirely possible." Although it is doubtful that such attacks could entirely elude our patrols, the statement said, "It is impossible to insure that such an attack will be completely frustrated."

New Uniform Order

50 Years Ago—The new uniform order has finally received the approval of the Chief of Staff and the Secretary of War and gone to the printer. The recommendation of General Chaffee that the letters "U. S." again be used on the collars of the uniform coats of the officers of the Army has been approved and will take effect on 1 July next. The demand among officers for a return to this insignia was universal.

Lincoln Resumes Post

90 Years Ago—By a majority unprecedented since the earlier days of the Republic, Abraham Lincoln resumes his post at the helm of State. As the choice of the people, as the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, and as the legitimate head of the Nation, let every patriot give him a hearty and enthusiastic support. And God grant that long before his four years have run to their close, the blessings of honorable peace may have dawned again on an undivided and happy country.

Prewar German Hospital Now Serves USAFE As Cosmopolitan Medical Center

A FORMER German hospital in the outskirts of Wiesbaden, Germany, is now the prize medical establishment of the U. S. Air Forces Europe.

Though its primary function is to take care of Service personnel in WARCOM (Wiesbaden Area Command), 60 per cent of the patients are from outside the area—from Spain, Greece, Turkey, West Africa, Saudi Arabia and many other areas under USAFE. In addition it handles all air evacuations, even RCAF patients who are taken to Westover AFB, Mass., where they are turned over to Canadian control. Two air evacuation flights are made each week to pick up patients in France. Its outpatient load nears 10,000 a month.

The 500-bed institution is under Col. Harold F. Funsch, USAF, commander of the 7100th AF Hospital and the 495th Medical Group. USAFE's Surgeon, Maj. Gen. Harry G. Armstrong, formerly Surgeon General of the Air Force, has his offices at nearby Lindsey AB.

The Germans started the hospital in 1937, later using French prisoners of war to continue construction. The U. S. Army took it over in 1945, transferring it to the Air Force two years later. Like most German military construction, it is solidly built, although from American hospital standards not well designed for its purpose. Since the Air Force has taken over, new buildings have been added, including dining rooms for enlisted personnel, a theater, nurses quarters and a barracks for enlisted men recently dedicated as "General Grow Hall."

Also recently completed is an outdoor recreation area paved with green asphalt and fitted out for basketball, badminton, and tennis when the weather is suitable, or in winter it can be flooded with a thin covering of water, frozen, and used for ice skating.

The hospital has many unusual activities. For example, it is probably the only hospital with a wind-sock. This is used as an aid for helicopters bringing emergency cases in from outside the area. They land on a large grass plot nick-named "Funsch Field," after the commanding officer.

It also has greenhouses which not only raise flowers and plants to brighten the patients' rooms, but also a considerable amount of vegetables.

The hospital also has a veterinary and animal section where dogs are cared for, one of the institution's responsibilities being the medical care and prescribing the feeding of the guard dogs trained for the use of the Air Force there, of which there are now 54 and more to come. It also cares for the animals used for testing and experimental purposes. Maj. Charles Thuniz has charge of this department.

In the dental department, Lt. Col. Benjamin W. Dunn has set up the machinery and equipment to use chrome-cobalt alloy, a relatively cheap metal, in place of gold in dentures. Because Colonel Dunn's laboratory also makes dentures for 14 satellite bases this represents a savings of about $2,000 a month. The results, while infinitely cheaper, are considered fully as good and in some respects better than when made with gold.

Maternity cases for USAFE dependents from many parts of the theater are also taken care of at the hospital. Last December the hospital celebrated its 2,000th birth, but by the end of this year it expects to have delivered another 1,000 in 1954.

So many maternity cases have been sent there that a separate hotel, the Continental in downtown Wiesbaden, has been designed to house expectant mothers.

An interesting angle has been the cooperation with the local German medical profession, several joint meetings having been held. In fact, the former German medical commander, Dr. Rolf Junderlock, and other members of the old professional staff, have visited, on invitation, and seen what the Americans have done there.

Last winter, too, when West Germany had a number of polio cases and there were none among the Americans in the Wiesbaden area, Colonel Funsch loaned the hospital's iron lung to the hospital at Mainz to take care of emergency cases.

Arrive At Izmir

Two Army Colonels, Joseph H. Hodges, Jr. and Erwin O. Gibson, have been appointed to the staff of Allied Land Forces Southeastern Europe following their arrival in Izmir, Turkey.

Colonel Hodges has been appointed Assistant Chief of Staff and Colonel Gibson, Chief of the Logistical Division.

Prior to their arrival in Turkey, Colonel Gibson headed the Logistical Division, Headquarters Fourth Army, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., while Colonel Hodges commanded the 52d Field Artillery Group, Ft. Sill, Okla.

PVT. TO B. G.

Brig. Gen. John Weckerling, USA, was retired recently at Jackson Barracks, New Orleans, La., after more than 36 years' service. He was honored at a review by troops of the 39th Division, the organization in which he began his Army career as a private in 1918.

COMMENT ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS

NATO Military Committee Here Next Week

THE Military Committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will meet in Washington, beginning 22 Nov., for the first time since 1950, the intervening sessions having been held in The Hague, London, Rome, Lisbon, and (last December) in Paris. This committee is NATO's highest military body, being composed of the Joint Chiefs' Chairmen, or their representatives, from all 14 nations. It must be distinguished from the three-man Standing Group (America, Britain, and France) and from the Military Representatives Committee, both of which are permanently in Washington.

The normal assemblings of the Military Committee, of which this is one, come just before the annual sessions of the foreign ministers who make up the North Atlantic Council. The Committee's aim is to put military approval on the NATO military plans built up during preceding months by the Representatives committee and the Standing Group, in order that these plans may be considered by the ministers at their December gathering in Paris.

FINALITY IN PLANNING is manifestly impossible in one of the most important of all areas—the revisions of planning and organization which will be necessitated by the admission to NATO of West Germany and its 500,000 personnel. For the London agreements toward that end are not yet ratified, and it is accordingly a trifle early to begin counting the 500,000 chickens, let alone arming them and assigning them to corps. What is done at the meeting in this respect, in brief, will be tentative, and it is so huge a part of the Annual Review that much of that very review will have to be far more tentative than in the past.

Fortunately, there is a great deal which is susceptible to final planning, notably in the consideration of a pattern for warfare in an atomic age. Since the last Annual Review of a year ago, a great deal has been done to advance the powers of the forces which are deployed under General Alfred M. Gruenther as SACEUR, for we now have announced the sending to Europe of ground-force elements equipped to use three weapons with nuclear capability, the 280mm. gun, the new medium-range rocket, Honest John, and the longer-range missile, Corporal. These additions to previous atomic capabilities of land-based and carrier-based airpower have altered the defense posture of NATO very considerably.

The present chairman of the Military Committee, who takes office by rotation, is General Auguste Guillaume, Chairman of the French Chiefs of Staff. The American representative (in the absence of General J. Lawton Collins, now in the Far East) will be his deputy, Brig. Gen. Karl Truesdell, Jr. At the meeting will be representatives of the three major NATO commands, in Europe, in the Atlantic, and in the English Channel.

EXERCISE HELLENIC SKY II, employing land, sea, and air forces of the Southeast Europe Sector of NATO, has been under way this week in, about, and over Greece, with participation by British and American combat elements as well as those of Greece. Ground forces under command of Lt. Gen. Fotius Messinopoulos have been engaged in defense of the northern region against a simulated assault in force. Support has been given them by the Greek 28th Tactical Air Force under Maj. Gen. Elias Koutsoukos, with contributions from the U. S. Sixth Fleet carriers. There have been diversionary air attacks on the Sixth Fleet itself.

At the same time, Greek and British and American (Sirago) submarines, under British command, have been employed in a related sea exercise, in which initial reports indicate that USS Sirago pierced the antisubmarine defenses and reached both a cruiser and a destroyer. The whole exercise was under joint direction of three deputies of Admiral William B. Fechteler, the Southern Sector Commander—VAdm. Thomas S. Combs, USN, commanding the Naval Striking and Support Forces, Lt. Gen. Lawrence C. Craigie, USAF, commanding Allied Air Forces, and Lt. Gen. Paul W. Kendall, USA, commanding Allied Land Forces Southeast Europe.

THE AMIABLE ERA which was optimistically thought to be heralded by the Nine Power London Pact, whereby France and Germany were scheduled to lie down together, has been interrupted, as might have been expected, and by the difficult matter of the Saar, as was in fact predicted. Chancellor Adenauer's confidence that the points still unsettled would be rapidly disposed of in Franco-German conference ran into the sudden announcement from Paris that such a conference would not be possible just yet; instantly the home opposition which Herr Adenauer had just beaten down leaped back into activity, and at the moment it is impossible to feel sure that France has not again upset international hopes. This is not the time for recriminations, but—as previously remarked in connection with the imminent NATO meetings—it must be recognized that a great deal depends upon the coming parliamentary discussions in Bonn and Paris.

IN INDO-CHINA, General J. Lawton Collins is engaged in a new survey of a situation which gets no better. Detached by President Eisenhower from his normal duties with NATO, General Collins is given a temporary mission which will call for earnest talks with the French military upon the possibilities of rebuilding the defenses of Indo-China. We have not seen eye to eye with our ally in that land, for France has been reluctant to take the whole step of yielding independence to

GEN. COLLINS

Vietnam, and the American readiness to assume training responsibility has been posited upon Vietnam's independence. It is impossible to ignore the widespread conviction that Indo-China's future is dark, and that no military reform of importance can be set up until first there have been political reforms of a far reaching nature, designed to overcome the strong and seemingly successful propaganda of Communism throughout these former French colonies.

The West has been laggard in recognizing that the Reds operate a cold war with just as much skill and determination and continuity as they employ in a hot war; extremely valuable ground has been lost since Dien Bien Phu, and it is an open question whether the Reds have not actually made more headway in their cold war than in the days of the shooting. This is a situation which is not going to be corrected by military agreements. General Collins' mission must be regarded as a most difficult one.

RUSSIAN AIRPLANES this past week again struck down an American mapping plane. The circumstance that, according to General J. E. Hull and others, the B-29 was over Japanese territory, far from the accepted Russian sea frontier, is not the sole matter of importance, for we should have learned after seven previous airplane losses that legal rights and wrongs do not govern Russian action.

The regrettable fact is that the B-29, engaged in its mapping work near the danger area, was not escorted by fighter planes as routine. A slow-moving

Final Report Shows 140,000 U. S. Casualties For Korean War; 24 Still Listed As Missing

More than 140,000 U. S. battle casualties resulted from the Korean War.

A "tentative final report" newly issued by the Defense Department shows that there were 33,629 deaths and 103,285 wounded during the period 25 June 1950 to 27 July 1953. In addition, 5,133 were reported captured or missing but returned to military control; 21 refused repatriation; and 24 are still missing.

Of those still missing, only 15, all Air Force fliers, are definitely known to be alive. The Chinese Reds contend that these men are not war prisoners but "political prisoners" who were allegedly captured in Manchuria outside the war zone. Negotiations still are in progress for their release.

The remaining nine who continue to be carried as MIA are Navy men. The Defense Department said there is a possibility that six are alive. The other three are believed to be dead but there is not sufficient evidence for a finding of presumptive death.

The Army and Marine Corps no longer list any of their personnel as MIA.

The Defense Department said the audit of the daily casualty reports received from the Korean Area is continuing and next of kin will be notified promptly of any changes in status.

The new report contains revisions through 30 Sept. 1954. It includes changes in classification occurring through that date but excludes any casualties incurred since 27 July 1953.

MEMO

For Journal Readers

IT'S A GOOD BET that legislation to raise military pay will be introduced during the first week of the 84th Congress in January, though probably not a Defense Department measure. That may be held up for a while. It will be interesting to watch who cops the credit for a Service pay boost, should one be voted.

AMONG LIKELY SPONSORS of military pay raise legislation are Representatives Kilday (D-Tex.) and Van Zandt (R-Pa.), both high-ranking members of the House Armed Services Committee. When the Democrats are in control of House, as they will be next year, Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee normally permits Mr. Kilday to handle pay raise legislation. His constituents include thousands of Service personnel.

IN THE 83d CONGRESS, Mr. Van Zandt and Rep. Bob Wilson (R-Calif.), another Armed Services Committee member who was reelected, sponsored pay raise bills. Nothing was done about it, but they are on record as favoring a pay increase.

THE DEMOCRATS WILL WANT to take credit, if they can, for a military pay boost during a Republican Administration. On the other hand, the Eisenhower Administration will want to be identified as the sponsor of such a measure, if practicable.

THEREFORE, THE ODDS favor early introduction of pay raise bills. What will come of them in the 84th session, however, will be linked directly with action on pay hikes for the government's civilian employees.

THE AWOL RATE in the Services is going down, with the new Executive Order prescribing stiffer penalties expected to be a further help. A major reason for the drop is the fact that the Armed Forces have discharged thousands of "substandard" personnel during recent months.

AIR WATCHERS IN THE U. S. at Ground Observer Corps filter centers are receiving important logistics support from the Air Force. Newly released AFR 145-23 provides for free AF issue of 6 pounds of coffee, 3 pounds of sugar and 58 ounces of evaporated milk as the daily allowance per 100 workers at a center.

A RECENTLY COMPLETED Army warehouse survey has resulted in declaring 19,000,000 square feet of storage space as surplus. Seventeen depots will be closed.

THE RESERVE OFFICERS ASSN. proposal that SecDef Wilson employ his authority to release men from active service if they agree to participate in the Reserve program will get a strong push in the 84th Congress. The reason: Col. J. Strom Thurmond, USAR, has been elected Senator from South Carolina. He is president of the ROA, has been a strong advocate of such a modification in the Reserve program.

INCLUDED AMONG a list of newly approved Army research projects is one on "Development and Growth of the Human Tooth."

ONE OF THE WITNESSES who appeared during the hearings in the Stevens-McCarthy case has just been promoted. He is Lt. (now Capt.) J. Bruce Blount, USA, aide-de-camp to the CG at Ft. Dix, N. J. He won bi-partisan praise from Senators for his appearance before the Committee.

DEFENSE DEPT. CEILINGS imposed on the number of doctors which the Services may have on active duty are drawing criticism from the Surgeons General and the Service Secretaries. The protest is being made that under the limitations it is not possible to provide "adequate medical care for dependents."

AS A CONSEQUENCE, there is good reason to believe that if members of the Armed Services and Appropriations Committees give Service spokesmen any kind of an opening, they will cite the need for additional medical officers.

INTENSIVE SAFETY CAMPAIGNS will be conducted at all military installations in preparation for the upcoming holidays. The Pentagon has sent advance literature on this subject to the field.

AIR FORCE SAFETY OFFICIALS report that motor vehicle accidents last year accounted for 585 airmen and officers killed, with 6,245 injured: cost to taxpayers is put at $25 million. Current figures show that an Air Force person is injured in an auto accident every 80 minutes, with a death occurring every 16 hours: cost, more than $68,493 a day.

YOUNGEST GENERAL or admiral in the Armed Forces now is believed to be Brig. Gen. Fred M. Dean, USAF, 37, who was graduated from West Point in 1938. He was a colonel at 26. General Dean now commands Webb AFB, Tex.

GUIDED MISSILE TESTS have resulted in a requirement for a $6 million expansion at White Sands Proving Ground, N. M. Additional projects running into the millions also are on the drawing boards.

ALTHOUGH CONSIDERABLE FANFARE attended its creation in August 1953, including a special news conference, the report of the Defense Dept. Advisory Committee on Fiscal Organization and Procedures (the Cooper Committee), most curiously was released for publication the day after the elections. This, of course, handicapped its effective presentation to the public. In short, the report got buried on back pages.

THERE IS SPECULATION that this timing may be related to the fact that the Committee was unable to reach unanimous conclusions. A dissenting note by Assistant Defense Secretary W. J. McNeil, Pentagon Comptroller, is included in the report. Reports are that the Cooper Committee declined to go along all the way with Mr. McNeil's enthusiasm for widespread use of the Industrial Fund concept in the Armed Forces.

ON THIS MATTER, the Services are awaiting anxiously forthcoming reports of the Hoover Commission. These are expected to have a considerable impact on all the Services.

THE ARMED FORCES I&E PROGRAM, which has yet to win its proper place of prestige in the Pentagon sun, once again is without a chief. There was a considerable interval also before the previous chief, Maj. Gen. Harlan Hartness, USA, was called to the top I&E post from a division command in Germany. He retired on 31 Oct. on his own application and as yet a successor, expected to be a Navy rear admiral, has not been designated.

You've been meaning to send in your application to the Armed Forces Medical Aid Association for a long time now. When you wait, you're taking a chance with hospital bills.

Make sure your wife and children are covered in case of sickness and confinement in a civilian hospital. Remember: when it happens, it's too late.

Fill out your application and send in your initial dues before the day is over. If you don't have an application form or if you haven't yet gotten full information, send a postcard with your address to:

DON'T LET RETIREMENT INCOME FADE AWAY...

It can... but it won't if part of your current earnings are wisely invested. The reason many people have invested in securities over and above fixed-dollar savings is that in the last 10 years, the purchasing power of the dollar has declined to approximately 52% !!!

You can help combat possible future fluctuations in the purchasing power of the dollar by acquiring dividend paying securities through convenient purchases of Mutual Fund shares... out of present earnings.

For several years we have acted as financial counselors to thousands of civilian, military and naval personnel. We have helped them solve the problem of providing extra retirement income and start on the way to a sound financial future through the regular purchase of Mutual Fund shares. We'd like to help you, too.

Just mail us a postcard with your name and address for our free booklet, "The Modern Way to Invest." We'll include complete, free information on how you can start a plan to help provide you with extra retirement income.

IN 32 Years WE'VE GROWN WITH THE AUTOMOBILE
Thanks to the confidence of the Armed Forces

Away back in 1922, the year United Services Automobile Association was founded, the Model "T" was popular. But you wouldn't be satisfied with one today.

There've been plenty of changes made since '22... in automobiles, the armed services and in insurance—all of them for the better.

As the oldest automobile insurance company exclusively serving officers in the U. S. Armed Services, United Services Automobile Association has enjoyed such amazing growth since its founding in 1922 that in 1954 it remains supreme in its field. Today there are nearly a quarter of a million USAA policies in force.

This is important to you because it enables you to stay ahead on automobile and household-personal effects insurance costs, and still enjoy the ultimate in protection.

So when it's time to insure, give yourself the best, and save too. Insure with USAA.

For additional information on how USAA can serve you as an officer or warrant officer... fill in coupon and mail it today.

United Services

AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION

Dept. E-2 1400 E. Grayson Street • San Antonio 8, Texas

• United Services Automobile Association was organized in 1922 to provide low-cost automobile and household-personal effects insurance for Commissioned and Warrant Officers of the Armed Forces.

• USAA is under the direction and management of active and retired officers of the Armed Services.

• Because all funds are pooled for mutual protection, USAA can offer insurance at lowest possible cost, with large savings realized in generous annual dividends. (During 1953, 180,000 officers insured by USAA shared in dividends of $4,300,000.)

• USAA operates in the United States, its possessions, territories; Canada, Cuba, Canal Zone, Japan; certain U. S. military bases in the Pacific, in the Philippines and in Western Continental Europe.

• Claims are settled promptly even in the most out-of-the-way places.

• No matter whether you're stateside, overseas or on orders, USAA is as close as your nearest mailbox, telephone or telegraph office. Your USAA insurance becomes effective as of postmarked time of application, unless a later date is specified.

SERVICE FAMILY NOTES

THE Washington Chapter, Daughters of the U. S. Army, had as their guest of honor, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, at their benefit luncheon and fashion show, which was held 2 Nov., at Ft. McNair. Also present were Mesdames Charles E. Wilson; Robert T. Stevens; F. H. Higgins, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Army; George H. Roderick, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Army; Hugh M. Milton, II, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Army; Charles E. Finucane, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Army; Matthew B. Ridgway, wife of the Chief of Staff of the Army; John H. Stokes, Jr., wife of the Commanding General Military District of Washington; and George Gibbs, wife of the Post Commander, Fort McNair.

Mrs. Malcolm Lindsey, National President of the Daughters U. S. Army, was overall Chairman, with Mrs. Vida Ord Alexander as Vice Chairman. They were ably assisted by Mesdames John E. Hunt, Seth W. Cook, Raymond V. Cramer, Avery J. Cooper, Henry Schroeder, Fay Prickett, Archibald King, John Donovan, Hines Cleland, Robert McDonald, Jr., Urban E. Rohr, and the Misses Sallie Ovenshine and Nancy Hawkins.

Mrs. Lindsey escorted the First Lady to the ballroom where they were met by Mrs. Eli E. Daman, President of the Washington Chapter. The other invited guests were escorted by other officers of the Washington Chapter, who are Mrs. Eric Purdon, 1st Vice President, Mrs. Thomas F. Spencer, 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Robert McDonald, Treasurer and Mrs. David Foster, Secretary.

The guest table was decorated with miniature soldiers, dating from 1776 to the present day, parading down a gold strip of ribbon, the length of the table. Music was furnished by a strolling accordionist, Sgt. Kaler, who played while the members waited for their guests, and a trio from the Army Band played during lunch. The fashion show was presented by one of Washington's leading stores, under the direction of Mrs. Ruey Messenger. Proceeds of the luncheon will go to local and other charities of the Chapter.

Members of the Junior group of the Washington Chapter of the Daughters of the U. S. Army recently elected officers for the coming year. They are: Miss Elizabeth Aman, president; Miss Carolyn Simon, vice president; Miss Frances Lummis, recording secretary; Mrs. Sherman Henderson, corresponding secretary and Miss Jacqueline Haas, treasurer. They will take office in January. Mrs. Clyde Parker was reinstated as sponsor. Following elections the group discussed plans for continuing its project of giving ward parties at Fort Belvoir Hospital and made plans for an egg nog party in December.

Engineer Officers' Wives Club—

Members and guests of the Engineer Officers' Wives Club were present in force on 3 Nov., for a coffee get-together, at the Army-Navy Country Club. The honorary president, Mrs. Samuel D. Sturgis, and the president, Mrs. Emerson C. Itschner, welcomed Mrs. P. F. Yount, wife of Major General Yount, Chief of the Transportation Corps; Mrs. Frank Heileman, wife of Major General Heileman, former Chief of the Transportation Corps; Mrs. K. D. Nichols, wife of Major General Nichols, General Manager, Atomic Energy Commission; and Mrs. James Christiansen, wife of Major General Christiansen, USA-Ret.

The occasion, which provided the opportunity for many reunions among those returning from such widely scattered overseas posts as Japan, Libya and Germany, was highlighted by the coffee table arranged with Autumn colors of blazing sumac and bronze and golden mums.

Mrs. David H. Tulley, welfare chairman of the Club, reported that the General Clay Foundation for German Youth Activities, under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. Shouse, is sponsoring a West Point Glee Club concert, at the Lisner Auditorium, on 4 Dec., at 8:30 p.m. The affair will be formal, and will be attended by top Service and official personalities.

Tickets at $3.00 and $5.00 will be available at the Snow Concert Bureau, 1108 G St., N. W. Funds raised will directly support the American-initiated Youth Centers in Germany. Wives of All Services Join Hands In Dedication Ceremonies At Capital Club

Dedications were the order of the day at the opening meeting last week of the Woman's Army and Navy League as wives of ranking Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine and Coast Guard officials were on hand to hear the annual report of their pet project, the Soldiers, Sailors, Marines, and Airmen's Club of Washington.

Half a century before "unification" was an official fact, the officers' wives and families who make up the membership of the League worked together to provide a "home-away-from-home" for visiting servicemen from each branch of the Service.

The President of the League, Mrs. W. P. T. Hill, wife of the Marine Corps' Major General Hill, presided at a brief business meeting prior to the dedication ceremony. Mrs. Herman Feldman, wife of the retired Quartermaster General of the Army, conducted the ceremonies in her capacity as Chairman of Dedications.

An Air Force room was dedicated by Mrs. William Pope Anderson III. The Club was presented with a plaque which read, "In memory of General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF, and to the memory of Captain Stanley M. Anderson, USAF, and Lt. Vachel W. Anderson II, USAF."

In the Air Force Room, a bed was dedicated to the memory of General Muir S. Fairchild, the late Vice Chief of Staff under General Vandenberg. The check for this dedication was sent by the Air Force Officers' Wives Club of Eglin AFB, Fla.

HONOR GEN. FAIRCHILD—

At recent dedication ceremonies held at the Soldiers, Sailors, Marines, and Airmen's Club in Washington, D. C., Mrs. William Pope Anderson III watches as Mrs. Muir S. Fairchild presents a check to Mrs. Herman Feldman in behalf of the Eglin AFB, Fla., Wives' Club. The check will serve to dedicate a bed in the Air Force Room to the honor and memory of General Muir S. Fairchild, USAF, late Vice Chief of Staff.

Mrs. Anderson was present to dedicate the Air Force Room of the club and the dedication was symbolized by a plaque which read, "To the honor and memory of General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF, and to the memory of Capt. Stanley M. Anderson, USAF, and Lt. Vachel Worthington Anderson II, USAF." Both Captain Anderson and Lt. Anderson were sons of Mrs. Anderson, wife of the late Lt. Gen. William Pope Anderson III.

Mrs. Ridgway Honor Guest—

Honor guest at the Transportation Corps Women's Club luncheon on 10 Nov., was Mrs. Matthew B. Ridgway, wife of General Ridgway, USA, Chief of Staff.

Mrs. James Miles Carter, Publicity Chairman of the Women's Club for the National Symphony Orchestra was guest speaker for the luncheon, which was held at Walter Reed Officers' Club. The Transportation Corps Women's Club has been subscribing annually to the National Symphony Orchestra fund. Mrs. Carter was introduced by Mrs. Marzelle F. Boyd.

The unusual table decorations, composed of dried flowers and grasses, were arranged by Mrs. Charles G. Schone, chairman of the hostess committee, and her assistants, Mesdames Burton Miles, Edward L. Burchell, and Alcorn B. Johnson.

Members of the hospitality committee, assisting the hostesses were Mesdames Charles W. Elliott, Walter J. Flanagan, Richard V. Hart, Jack W. Boyer, James R. Barkley, Joe E. Childers, Joseph W. Moore and Joseph G. Porter.

AF Wives Plan Show—

The Air Force Officers' Wives Club of Washington, D. C., will hold a luncheon meeting at the Shoreham Hotel on Thursday, 18 Nov., at 12:30, when Julius Garfinkel and Company will present a fashion show featuring the cocktail and evening dresses of Cell Chapman.

Designer Chapman will be present at the showing to introduce the collection of gowns.

Mrs. Fairchild presented the check to Mrs. Hill in behalf of the Wives Club.

Mrs. Lemuel C. Shepherd, wife of the Marine Corps Commandant, received the awards for several beds dedicated in the Marine Corps Room. First dedication was in memory of Col. John D. Blanchard, USMC, dedicated by his seven-year-old son, James. Two beds were dedicated to the memory of Lt. Col. Henry A. Ellis; one presented by his wife and family and the second given by the Cherry Point Officers' Wives Club. A fourth bed was dedicated in memory of Marine Corps Col. George F. Bastion and a fifth was presented in honor of Brig. Gen. Samuel S. Jack to bring the impressive ceremony to a close.

Following the board meeting and dedication ceremonies, a buffet luncheon was served in the Lounge of the Club. Mrs. Ralph J. Canine, wife of the U. S. Army's Lt. General Canine, was in charge of luncheon arrangements and decor. Among the members present for the ceremony and luncheon were Mrs. Harold S. Talbott, wife of the Secretary of the Air Force; Mrs. Murray L. Royer, wife of Vice Admiral Royer, USN; Mrs. Nathan F. Twining, wife of the Chief of Staff of the Air Force; Mrs. Walter Bedell Smith, wife of the General and former Under Secretary of State; Mrs. Alfred C. Richmond, whose husband, Vice Admiral Richmond, is Commandant of the Coast Guard.

Service Folk

The Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Mrs. Arthur Radford gave a welcome-home dinner party, on 4 Nov., for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherrod, who are back from Japan. Mr. Sherrod, who is on the staff of the Saturday Evening Post in the Far East, and Mrs. Sherrod will be at their Washington home on Rodman St., N. W., until after the first of the year, when they will return to Tokyo. . . .

Brig. Gen. (USA-Ret.) and Mrs. D. S. McConaughy have returned from an extended trip through Mexico, and have moved into their new home at 6552 N. Pershing Ave., Lincoln Village, Stockton, Calif. General McConaughy was Commanding General of the Columbus, Ohio, General Depot at the time of his retirement. . . . Mrs. Sterling K. Eisiminger, and her children, Skipper, Kay and Karen, have moved into their new home at 4001 Edgewood Circle, Columbus, Ga., where they will reside while Colonel Eisiminger is on duty in the Far East.

Army Finance Officers' Wives to Meet—

Luncheon and cards will be the order of the day for the Army Finance Wives, when they gather 18 Nov., at the Army-Navy Country Club at noon, with Mesdames J. R. Koshko, R. J. Clynes and G. E. Brenneman as hostesses. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Koshko at EDgewater 9-5500, extension 5138.

Weddings and Engagements

CWO and Mrs. William H. Daniels of Ft. Bragg, N. C., announce the engagement of their daughter, Sandra Dawn Daniels, to Capt. Ernest Thomas Hayes, jr., USA (USMA '50), son of Mrs. Frances M. Hayes of Louisville, Ky., and the late Col. E. T. Hayes, USA.

The wedding is planned for late December, at the Main Post Chapel, Ft. Bragg.

CROWE-BARR — Miss Patricia Bell Barr, daughter of Maj. Gen. (USA-Ret.) and Mrs. David Goodwin Barr of Arlington, Va., was married 5 Nov. at the Post Chapel, Ft. Myer, Va., to 1st Lt. J. Godfrey Crowe, USA, of Ft. Meade, Md. Lieutenant Crowe is the son of Capt. (USN) and Mrs. John Francis Crowe of Washington, D. C. Father Joseph McBarron performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory brocaded satin designed with a full cathedral train. Her veil of heirloom Chantilly lace was fingertip, and she carried a prayer book and white orchid with a cascade of white baby orchids.

Mrs. James R. Cavanaugh of Syracuse, N. Y., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The other attendants were: the Misses Jane Johnson, Nona Randolph, Diana Sandeler, Carol Schewe and Mrs. Louis Michael. Miss Consuelo Godfrey was a junior bridesmaid and Miss Anne Cavanaugh, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

First Lt. William F. Lackman, a West Point classmate of the bridegroom was best man. Groomsmen were Capt. Walter E. Adams, 1st Lt. Fred G. Rockwell, 1st Lt. David H. Rumbough, 1st Lt. Roy J. Herte, jr., Capt. Robert F. Lynd, 1st Lt. Lewis G. Michael, Capt. Walter K. Gearan, 2d Lt. James W. Gray and 1st Lt. Thomas Harold.

Mrs. Crowe attended Holton-Arms School and Junior College in Washington, and was graduated from George Washington University.

Lieutenant Crowe attended Landon School for Boys in Washington, and upon graduation entered the U. S. Military Academy, graduating in the Class of 1951. He served with the 7th Infantry Division in Korea and was then assigned as aide to Maj. Gen. Edwin K. Wright. Prior to his present assignment at Ft. Meade, he was aide to Maj. Gen. John H. Stokes, jr., Commanding General of the Military District of Washington.

After a wedding trip to Miami Beach,

Fla., Lieutenant and Mrs. Crowe will make their home at 1812 Patton Drive, Meade Heights, Ft. Meade, Md.

LARSEN-WERHANE — Miss Virginia Anne Werhane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Werhane of Northbrook, Ill., was married 23 Oct. to Mr. Arnold C. Larsen, jr., son of Lt. Col. (USMC-Ret.) and Mrs. Larsen of Evanston, Ill. The ceremony was performed at St. Peter's Evangelical Neighborhood Church, Northbrook, with the Reverend Armin H. Bizer officiating.

Mrs. Robert L. Werhane attended her sister-in-law as matron of honor, with Miss Lois Ann Dickau and Mrs. Richard Huhka as bridesmaids, and Jennilee Werhane, sister of the bride, a junior bridesmaid. Mr. Daniel Brush was best man, and Messrs. Donald Wolf, John Welles, Richard Mandahl and Walcott Hall ushered.

Following a wedding trip in the Ozarks, Mr. and Mrs. Larsen will return to Northbrook to live. Mr. Larsen, a graduate of Lake Forest College, is with the Chicago Caster and Equipment Company. The bride was graduated from the Evans-ton Hospital School of Nursing.

War College Wives Hold Show

CARLISLE BARRACKS, PA. Officers' wives of the Army War College highlighted their recent monthly meeting with a Fall Fashion show and guest luncheon. The luncheon decor was planned by Mrs. K. I. Curtis and Mrs. T. M. Devine, who embellished 15 large tables with fascinating fashion fantasies. Hats designed by Mrs. Dale Brannon complemented colorful Fall accessories which accentuated the table themes.

The Carlisle Fashion House displayed a beautiful collection of the latest Fall fashions. As the models showed the latest styles in afternoon and evening wear Mrs. R. S. Einstein, owner of Fashion House, briefly described the apparel. Mrs. J. H. Polk was prompter, and music for the occasion was offered by Mrs. W. E. Besse at the piano. Mrs. J. H. Chiles was responsible for the program, and Mrs. J. W. Mainwaring was in charge of arranging the luncheon.

Honor guests for the luncheon, seated at the table of Mrs. J. E. Moore, wife of the Commandant of the College and Honorary President of the Officers' Wives Club, and Mrs. Devere P. Armstrong, President of the Officers' Wives Club, were: Mrs. L. P. Whitton, wife of the Commanding Officer of Olmstead AFB; Mrs. J. L. Mann, President of the Olmstead AFB Officers' Wives Club; Mrs. Stephen Sherwood, President of the Women's Auxiliary of Mechanicsburg Naval Depot, and Mrs. John Cifranic, Second Vice President of the Women's Auxiliary of Mechanicsburg Naval Depot.

Officers' wives who acted as models for the fashion show were: Mesdames H. K. Holman, C. C. Smith, J. I. Muir, K. G. Pavey, Paul Hert, A. O. Connor, W. P. Yarborough, J. A. McChristian, G. V. Underwood, John Keating, W. W. Harris, and R. D. Sampson. Wardrobe assistants were Mrs. Oren Swain and Mrs. T. W. Donnell.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames William Haneke, John Berry, Herschel House, Wesley Kidd, James Miller, Norman Johnson, David Wallace, Edward Bissell, I. L. Luthi and C. H. Whitsell.

The Services Help

CAMP CHAFFEE, ARK. Maj. Gen. W. L. Mitchell, USA, 5th Armored Division commander, recently presented a $500 check to Fred Adair, Arkansas State treasurer of Gideons International. The donation was from the Camp Chaffee Protestant Chaplains' Fund. This year more than $1,100 has been given to the Gideons International from the Chaplains' Fund.

FT. BELVOIR, VA. This post, one of the largest military installations in the Washington area, has filled its $10,000 quota for the Washington District Community Chest. Lt. Col. C. C. DeVault, USA, Headquarters Commandant, was chairman of this year's campaign.

OFFUTT AFB, NEB. A grand sum of $9,183 was poured into the Community Chest coffers last week as a result of the 1954 drive effort here. Although the base contribution didn't hit the $10,000 mark as campaign officials had speculated, "We did top the '53 figure," Maj. W. F. Shimonkevitz, project officer, happily announced. Official records reveal that last year's total contribution was $8,949.

CAMP GORDON, GA. The 1954 Community Welfare Fund rocketed to an all-time high 5 Nov. as the post closed out the campaign with a total of $71,856 collected, well beyond the objective of $60,000 and more than $16,500 over last year's record smashing total of $55,212. "We developed this year's drive in the form of a military maneuver against a very real enemy—our $60,000 objective," Brig. Gen. Francis E. Howard, USA, commanding general, remarked when told of the record-smashing total.

A victory meeting of Welfare Fund representatives was held at which workers were congratulated by Maj. Edwin T. Weber, USA, deputy chief of staff and leader of the 1954 charity endeavor.

W. VA. TURNPIKE HONORS SERVICEMEN

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W. VA. The Army and Navy participated in dedication ceremonies of the West Virginia Turnpike—from Beckley to Charleston—on 8 Nov. when Col. Robert E. Wallace, USA, and Capt. Philip S. Morgan, Jr., USN, were speakers. Colonel Wallace, Senior Army Advisor in charge of Reserve affairs in West Virginia, spoke at the Sergeant Bender Bridge ceremonies. The bridge is named for Stanley Bender of Beckley, who as an Army Staff Sergeant in France, was awarded the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and valor in action on 17 Aug. 1944. Also to be dedicated when the Charleston-to-Beckley end of the toll road is opened is Memorial Tunnel, dedicated to all West Virginians who have served in the Armed Forces.

Captain Morgan, Commanding Officer of the South Charleston Naval Ordnance Plant, spoke at ceremonies there.

A bronze dedicatory plaque was unveiled by WAC First Lt. Jean M. Reardon of Beckley and Y/3C E. J. Belcher of Reed, a member of the WAVE Reserves. The invocation at both the Sergeant Bender Bridge and Memorial Tunnel was given by Chaplain (Col.) John W. Hollister, West Virginia Military District Chaplain. Chaplain Hollister is the District Superintendent of Methodist Churches.

30,000 FOR PRESIDENT

FT. MASON, CALIF. Mrs. Blanche Meiers, an Oakland, Calif., invalid, has produced 10,500 Christmas cards this year for use of servicemen in the Far East Command.

Mrs. Meiers turned the cards, remade from old cards she collects, and new envelopes, donated to her by Oakland residents, over to the Oakland Army Base and to Service chaplains for distribution among the overseas forces.

This is the third year of her special project and to date, despite illness which confines her to her bed and a wheel chair, she has produced 29,999 cards.

The 30,000th card, she said, is a special one. She is sending it to President Eisenhower for his personal use.

SERGEANTS PULL K. P. FOR CAUSE

FT. LEWIS, WASH. Cooks from Headquarters Battery, 82d Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battalion, reported enthusiastically to their kitchen last week with thoughts of the day's KP roster—five sergeants.

The 2d Infantry Division Master Sergeants and Sergeants First Class had promised to pull kitchen duties normally reserved for privates if the unit reached a quota of $5 per man in the United Good Neighbor Post Welfare Fund. Battery contributions totaled $680, exceeding the quota.

Vadm. Fox Heads Group

The National Security Industrial Association Commissary Equipment Advisory Committee, whose membership is composed of executives representing 60 industrial concerns in the commissary equipment field, met 4 Nov. at the Naval Supply Corps Research and Development Facility, Bayonne, N. J., to advise the Navy on its feeding problem.

Headed by Vice Adm. C. W. Fox (SC), USN-Ret., the committee's primary function is to aid Navy food and equipment researchers in their work, and to explore how industry can better satisfy specific Navy needs.

Retired Gens. Named

Lt. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, USA-Ret., of Auburn, Ala., former Chief of Engineers, has been elected a Director of ORRadio Industries, manufacturers of Irish Brand Magnetic Recording Tape. The appointment was announced by John Herbert Orr, President of the Opelika, Ala., concern, American pioneers in magnetic tape. General Pick, now Vice-Chairman of the Georgia Pacific Plywood Company, is best known for his building of the Ledo Road in Burma during World War II, and his fathering of the Pick-Sloan Plan, for controlling the waters of the Missouri River system. In addition, he was in charge of "Operation Snowbound" during the great blizzard in 1949 in the Midwest.

Lt. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey, USA (Ret.), has been named director of Continental Motors' recently-established New Products Division. The division, devoting its efforts to development of new products, is located at 8647 Lyndon Ave., Detroit.

Gen. Noce Will Raise Cattle At Laurel Mills, Va. Farm

Lt. Gen. Daniel Noce, USA-Ret., former Inspector General of the Army, and Mrs. Noce, will make their home at their Rappahannock County farm in Laurel Mills, Va., where the General will concentrate on raising beef cattle.

He was retired on 31 October in a special ceremony at Hanau, Germany, after 42 years of military service.

General Noce was honored with a final review by units of the 4th Infantry Division, including the 4th Engineer Battalion. The battalion was the General's first assignment when he left West Point in 1917.

Lt. Gen. Noce Meuse-Argonne. Between wars, he was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Shortly after the U. S. entered WWII, General Noce began the task of organizing the Engineer Amphibian Command and training its 50,000 soldiers in landing operations. Later, he served as Assistant Chief of Staff for Plans and Operations in the ETO, and directed operations and training of the Allied Forces in North Africa.

Immediately prior to his assignment a Army IG in 1952, he was Chief of Staff of the Army's European Command.

The Noce's daughter, Mildred, is the wife of Army Lt. Col. P. B. Melody, and their son, Robert, is serving as an Army captain.

Colonel and Mrs. Thrower and their daughter will make their home at Jacksonville, Fla.

A Colonel's Letter Tells Discrimination In Benefits Provided Officers of Like Service

THE following letter from a JOURNAL reader analyzes at length the situation which now results in the denial of Social Security benefits to some Retired officers with WW I service, while others with equal service are eligible. This letter cites particularly the case of Regulars with WW I service who were retired for physical disability after 16 June 1942.

Editor, The Journal:

In connection with the articles and editorials appearing in your issues of 16 and 23 October, regarding the "legal quirk", by which one of two Regular officers with equal service may receive Social Security benefits, on account of his WWII service, while the other one may not, you have referred only to the discrimination between those officers with WWI service, who retired voluntarily under the Act of 31 July 1935 and those who remained on active duty until mandatorily retired.

While this discrimination exists, it is only one half of the whole story with regard to the discrimination among officers having WWI service. There is also discrimination between Regulars with WWI service, who were retired for physical disability, after passage of the Act of 16 June 1942, and Regulars with WWI service, who retired voluntarily under the Act of 31 July 1935. All of the latter are eligible for Social Security benefits, while most of the former are not.

The Retired pay of officers, including Regulars with WWI service, who were retired for physical disability of less than 75%, is considered to be based in part upon their service in WWII, including those who were retired before 1 Oct. 1949 for total physical disability, but whose percentage of disability was later reduced below 75% at the time the Career Compensation Act was passed.

Thus, those officers with WWI service, who were retired before 1 Oct. 1949, with maximum retired pay of three-fourths of their active duty pay and who elected to take their retired pay at the increased rate granted under the Career Compensation Act and, therefore, were required to forego the 75% of retired pay, which they had been receiving, and take a lesser percentage of the active duty pay, and all those officers with WWI service, who are retired since 1 Oct. 1949, with a percentage of disability of less than 75%, are denied Social Security benefits, while officers of equal total service and equal amounts of WWII service, in fact, with service equal in every respect, and receiving the same amounts of retired pay, are eligible for Social Security benefits, if they retire voluntarily.

Under laws existing at the time the Career Compensation Act was passed, all officers who had service in WWI and who were retired for physical disability of any percentage, or for age, or voluntarily by reason of service, prior to 12 Nov. 1918, or under any provision of law, would be entitled to Social Security benefits, if the Career Compensation Act had not been passed.

Paragraph 4, Section 15 of the Act of 16 June 1942, states that the retired pay of any officer who served in any capacity as a member of the military or naval forces of the United States, prior to 12 Nov. 1918, thereafter retired under any provision of law, unless such officer is entitled to receive pay of a higher grade, shall be 75 percentum of his active duty pay at the time of his retirement.

Section 5 of the Act of 31 July 1935 states that any commissioned officer on the active list of the Regular Army or Philippine Scouts, who served in any capacity as a member of the military or naval forces of the United States, prior to 12 Nov. 1918, shall, upon his own application, be retired with annual pay equal to 75 percentum of his active duty annual pay at the time of his retirement.

These laws grant the maximum retired pay to all Regular officers with WWI service, who retire under any provision of law, and therefore, all officers qualifying under either of those laws should be eligible for Social Security benefits, because their WWII service did not increase their retired pay, yet those who are retired with less than 75% physical disability and those who were retired for total physical disability, before 1 Oct. 1949, and whose percentage of disability was reduced below 75%, when the Career Compensation Act was passed, are denied the maximum retired pay, and are, therefore, denied Social Security benefits, while those who retire voluntarily are granted the maximum retired pay and are, therefore, eligible for Social Security benefits, too.

While it might be too much to expect that the Career Compensation Act be changed to grant the maximum retired pay to those officers retired for physical disability, and who had service in WWI, as was contemplated by the Act of 16 June 1942, it would seem that the Social Security laws should be amended so that all those who would have been entitled to maximum retirement pay granted by both the Act of 31 July 1935 and the Act of 16 June 1942. If the Career Compensation Act of 1949 had not been passed, would be entitled to Social Security benefits, instead of only those who retire voluntarily.

The Social Security Administration representative states that it is not the concern of that Administration that the laws produce these results, but only to carry them out as they are. In the case of each Army officer applying for Social Security benefits, on account of his WWII service, the Social Security Administration requests the Department of the Army to Make the determination as to his entitlement to those benefits, and when the latter advises that, according to law, the officer is not entitled to Social Security benefits, because his retired pay is partly based on his WWI service, they refuse to grant these benefits.

Thus, it seems, there is no one interested in seeing that Social Security benefits for WWI service be granted to those officers with WWI service, who were retired for total physical disability, and whose percentage of disability was later assumed to be less at the time the Career Compensation Act of 1949 was passed, and those officers with WWI service currently being retired for less than 75% physical disability, as well as to those who retire voluntarily.

Perhaps, if all officers who will be affected upon reaching the age of 65, were aware of this injustice to them, it might be possible to get some action toward changing the Social Security laws to correct this.

I hope that you will do whatever you are able to do, in regard to this.

John J. Gahan, Col., USA-Ret.

Obituaries

Maj. Gen. Albert C. Lieber, USA

Maj. Gen. Albert C. Lieber, USA, 59, Post and 6th Armored Division Commander, Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., who died of a heart attack on 9 Nov. at the Ft. Wood Army Hospital, will be buried 13 Nov. in St. Paul's Churchyard at Chestertown, Md.

Born in Boston, General Lieber was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1916. In WW II, he was named District Engineer in the Iranian Engineer District of the Middle East, later becoming Deputy Chief of Staff of the XII Corps in the Third Army's dash through Europe. At the end of WW II, he served as Chief of Staff of the XXIII and XII Corps, when they were assigned to Occupation duty in Europe. He assumed command at Ft. Wood in April of this year, succeeding Maj. Gen. Arthur W. Pence, USA.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Isabel Emory Atkinson Lieber of Chestertown; one daughter, Mrs. Anne L. Michael, wife of Lt. Louis Guy Michael, Jr., of the 3d Infantry, Ft. Myer, Va.; and one son, 2d Lt. A. C. Lieber, 3d USA, (USMA '54), now stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga.

In regard to General Lieber, the following tribute was paid him by General Matthew B. Ridgway, Chief of Staff: "General Lieber's passing leaves a gap in the Army's ranks that will be exceedingly difficult to fill. He was a high-principled and devoted officer, and his character and outstanding service to the country will live in our memory."

Maj. Gen. S. D. Sturgis, Jr., Chief of Engineers, U. S. Army, stated: "The untimely passing of General Lieber comes as a great shock to me. As my Deputy for Military Operations, he relieved me of many of the problems of administering our world-wide organization; and, more recently, as Commander of Ft. Leonard Wood, he trained to an exceptionally high degree of proficiency the Engineer soldiers required by our Army today. He was one of those loyal few whose sense of duty and devotion to the Service and to our country overrode all other considerations. In peace and war, in good times and bad, he gave everything he had. We shall miss him greatly."

Maj. Gen. Arthur W. Pence, USA

Funeral services for Maj. Gen. Arthur W. Pence, USA, 56, Commanding General of the Army Engineer Center at Ft. Belvoir, Va., who died at the Ft. Belvoir Army Hospital, following a heart attack on 8 Nov., were held at the Ft. Myer, Va., Chapel, on 10 Nov. with burial at Arlington National Cemetery.

General Pence, USMA '18, was named Deputy Chief Engineer for the Service of Supply in the European Theater, succeeded by his becoming Engineer Officer of the Mediterranean Base Section, S.O.S., in the North African Theater. In March 1943, General Pence was appointed Commander of the East Base Section, later assuming command of the Peninsular Base Section, SOS, Italy.

Since WW II, General Pence has served as Director of Service Instruction at the Command and General Staff College; Commandant of the School of Logistics there; Chief of Staff of the Engineer Center; Engineer of the Ohio River District at Cincinnati; Assistant Chief of Engineers for Military Supply and Procurement; and Commanding General, 6th Armored Division, before assuming his last command at the Army Engineer Center.

General Pence is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Fuller Pence; one daughter, Miss Betty Sue Pence; two sons, Capt. William F. Pence, USA, now serving in Korea, and Capt. A. W. Pence, Jr., USA; his mother, Mrs. Alice Dunbar Pence; and two brothers, Maj. Gen. George D. Pence, USA-Ret., and Brig. Gen. William P. Pence, USA.

General Matthew B. Ridgway, Chief of Staff, U. S. Army, issued a statement saying, "General Pence's passing is a shocking loss to the entire Army. He had, throughout my entire service, my deepest admiration and respect, and the respect and affection of all his comrades."

Maj. Gen. S. D. Sturgis, Jr., Chief of Engineers, said,

"General Pence was a great soldier and a great leader. He was my personal friend from the time we served together as junior officers from the mountains of Bataan in the Philippine Islands through the stern and dreary days after World War I when the future of the Army did not appear very bright. His character, his great ability as an engineer, and his humaneness made him at all times an outstanding person to serve with and to know. He was a real leader of men, and as Commander of the Engineer Center, the most important field installation of the Corps of Engineers, he exhibited to a supreme degree the art of leadership. He was a wheel horse to me in this trying period of adjustment to a new Army and a new age. He was indeed a Christian soldier, and has been taken away to a greater reward."

Explorer Program Aid

The Air Force has advised commanders in AFR 46-2 that they are to be prepared to furnish "any reasonable and appropriate cooperation and assistance," without expenditure of appropriated funds, to the Explorer Program of the Boy Scouts of America.

The Continental Air Command has primary responsibility for supervising this cooperation in the U. S.

Gen. Holland Smith Will Be Narrator

"Uncommon Valor," a series of 26 half-hour films depicting the exploits of the Marine Corps during WWII and the Korean War, will be shown on TV after the first of the year.

The films are being produced by Executive Productions for the film division of General Teleradio, Inc., which owns New York's WOR television and radio stations and outlets in other cities. William Karn, who is writing and directing the series, is also the producer.

General Holland M. Smith, USMC-Ret., who led Marines in many engagements during WWII, will be the narrator.

Col. Crehan's Booklet

Col. John Patrick Crehan, USAR-Ret., who specializes in investment service for military personnel, has prepared a booklet on "The Modern Way To Invest." It pertains to mutual funds and is available without cost by writing the colonel at 2538 N.W. 19th Street, Oklahoma City 7, Okla.

Five Extra Days 'Pay' For 1954 Tax

Military personnel who are paid on the 5th of each month will be credited with five extra days of pay this year.

Pay records will be closed out on 31 Dec. 1954, but will include pay through 5 January.

The Armed Services Individual Tax Council has ruled that the total amount is to be included on W-2 Forms (report of taxes withheld during the year).

Military Mission Duty

The procedure for the selection of enlisted personnel for assignment to military missions, commissions and advisory groups is outlined in Army Regulation 611-220.

Applicants can either volunteer or be nominated, but must be at least 23 years old, meet special qualifications, and have sufficient remaining service to insure completion of a normal tour of duty overseas.

SECY INSPECTS C-123 — Chief Test Pilot Richard A. Henson of Fairchild Aircraft Division adjusts the parachute of Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens at Hagerstown, Md., prior to the Secretary's flight in the new C-123 assault transport. General Matthew B. Ridgway, Army Chief of Staff, also was in the inspection party.

USN Adopts Tiny "Gyro" For Small Craft Use

The world's smallest nautical gyro-compass, light enough to be carried by small Naval or civilian craft, has been developed as the result of cooperative effort by the Navy and the Marine Division of the Sperry Gyroscope Co.

Use of the miniature gyro-compass will permit small craft to navigate with direct true-north accuracy for the first time. The Navy anticipates widespread use of the new instrument in the fleet, particularly on landing craft and amphibious vehicles. Its use, according to the Navy, will assure precise maneuvers and pinpoint landings in combined arms assaults.

At present, small craft use the magnetic compass, which must be corrected at each reading to obtain true-north accuracy because of the earth's magnetic influence which varies at different latitudes. Such craft cannot feasibly carry the present-day master gyro which weighs 900 pounds.

The miniature gyro-compass, designated Mark 22, occupies less than one-half cubic foot of space and weighs nine pounds. It fits easily on a shelf close to the steering station, so that a steering repeater system is unnecessary.

In rugged tests conducted by the Navy, the diminutive gyro has proved its accuracy during sharp, fast turns of speeding boats, in adverse sea conditions, and in beachhead operations.

The small, lower-priced compass also is expected to provide better navigation for civilian craft, such as tow boats, work boats, fishing schooners, and pleasure craft, as well as an economical secondary source of ship-course information for larger freighters and ocean liners.

Supersonic Autopilots

The Air Force has ordered an undisclosed number of Minneapolis-Honeywell's E-10 autopilots which incorporate new concepts of flight path stabilization and control stick steering.

Designed especially to meet the problems of supersonic flight, the new autopilots accomplish flight path stabilization by controlling such outer loop factors as altitude and Mach number and by providing response to beam bombing system signals.

The new E-10 also introduces into aircraft flight control the idea of a "building block" system. This means that components and even the shock-mounted racks can be plugged into the plane, easily removed or quickly shifted from one aircraft to another even under field conditions.

Industrial Guide

The Defense Department has published a guide to aid industrial management in resuming production following damage caused by fire, explosion, sabotage or enemy attack.

Titled "Industry Guide to Planning for the Restoration of Production," the pamphlet is designed to help minimize interruptions in the production of critical material in time of war.

The booklet is based on a group of nearly 60 studies prepared for the Air Force by industrial concerns representing 13 different industries. A copy can be purchased at the Government Printing Office for 35 cents.

Navy Contracts

Contracts totaling over $1,500,000 were awarded this month by the Navy for items costing more than $100,000. They were: Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co., Milwaukee, Wis.: steam condensers and air ejectors; $406,860; Walker Electrical Co., Atlanta, Ga.: switchboards and control indicators; $382,848; Coleman Engineering Co., Los Angeles: electronic gear; $119,319; P & H Construction Co., Evansville, Ind.: modification and rehabilitation of existing buildings and facilities; $562,000; John W. Maloney Co., Seattle, Wash.: aircraft maintenance; $107,820.

Gas Turbine Engines Urged For Helicopters

Gas turbine engines are "tailored to helicopters requirements" and give twice the power of piston engines of comparable weight, Harold T. Hokanson of the General Electric Company told the American Helicopter Society in Washington 3 Nov.

Mr. Hokanson, who is directing the development of a Navy helicopter gas turbine engine at GE's Small Aircraft Engine Department, said this engine would result in fuel economy, low noise level, durability and reliability.

He said that while the specific fuel consumption of a piston engine is roughly equivalent to a gas turbine engine in the major area of helicopter operation, the premium gasoline required by a piston engine costs two and half times as much as gas turbine fuel.

Because the turbine wheel attempts to extract all energy from the gas stream and convert it to shaft horsepower, it has the effect of a muffler. Hence, the gas turbine engines are less noisy.

Mr. Hokanson based his belief that gas turbine engines would be more durable and reliable on GE's previous experience with jet engines, notably J47 engines. In Korea, J47 engines averaged less than one engine removal, due to foreign object damage, for every one thousand hours of operation.

Navy Meets Columbia After Duke Victory

Navy faces Columbia today, 13 Nov., at Thompson Stadium, Annapolis, after surging back into the headlines last week-end with a surprising 40-7 victory over Duke.

The Midshipmen entered the game, played in the Oyster Bowl at Norfolk, Va., as underdogs and emerged with one of their most shining victories of the year. Not until the final quarter did the Navy team allow the Blue Devils to score.

Two of the Navy scores were made by right halfback Bob Craig and one each by George Welsh (who received the annual Melvin T. Blasingham Award as the outstanding player of the game), Vince Monto, and Owen. George Textor and Bill Hepworth each chalked up two conversions; Textor also missed one and had one blocked.

Production of C-97 Series Enters Eleventh Year

More than 500 double-decked C-97s have rolled off the Boeing production line since the first version of the Stratofreighter was test flown 10 years ago this month.

Although the Stratofreighters built today are much the same in appearance as the original XC-97, the current models are much more versatile. Capable of long range, high altitude flight and swift speeds for propeller-driven aircraft, today's KC-97G, the 11th model in the Stratofreighter series and the Air Force's standard tanker, is supplementing the Strategic Air Command's Boeing B-47 medium bomber Wings by providing them with aerial refueling to increase greatly their combat range, and with mobility to speed men, cargo and supplies to any part of the world.

Hailed as a ship with even better flight characteristics than the B-29, the first XC-97 had its maiden flight at Renton, Wash. Two months later, it set a transcontinental record for transport type aircraft in a non-stop dash from Seattle to Washington, D. C. The flight was made in six hours and four minutes at an average speed of 383 miles per hour, a record that still stands.

Designed originally as a cargo plane, the C-97 later was modified for utilization as a Flying Boom refueling ship. There have been many versions of the aircraft since then, including the Stratocruiser, which is used by MATS and by commercial airlines, and the KC-97A, prototype of the multi-purpose tanker-troop transport-cargo carrier-hospital airplane.

The 500th mark in Stratofreighter production was reached last March, and through most of this year they have been coming off the production line at a rate of better than one per working day. Meanwhile, a total of 56 of the two-deck luxury Stratocruisers have been turned out, and more than 2,750,000 passengers have been carried some 150,000,000 plane miles since the first one took off in 1949.

Top Safety Award Goes to Robins Official

The Federal Safety Council Award, the highest safety award which can be given to a government employee, has been awarded to Harold L. Rush, Ground Safety Director at Robins AFB, Ga.

Mr. Rush, who is the second recipient of this award, was praised for his outstanding contribution to the advancement of accident prevention within the Federal Government, and for performance of duties important to the national interest. As Safety Director of MATS for a five-year period that included the Berlin Airlift, Mr. Rush set up safety programs all over the world. The award stated that he has done more for the advancement of safety overseas than any other individual.

Army Beats Yale 48-7; Opposes Penn Today

Army will meet Penn today at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, after crushing Yale 48-7 last week-end in one of the worst defeats ever suffered by the Ivy League school.

The Cadet powerhouse piled up the second highest score to be recorded against the New Haven team in its entire football history. The West Pointers got off to a scoring start on the very first play they launched from scrimmage with Tommy Bell carrying for 61 yards. Bob Kyasky, in the backfield for the first time since he suffered a broken collar bone in the first game of the season, took a 45-yard scoring pass from Pete Vann for the second first-period score.

Three of the Army scores were made by Bell, two by Kyasky, and one each by Don Holleder, Frank Burd and Steve Ackerman. Conversions were scored by Ralph Chesnauskas (5), Howard Glock and V. Loucks.

Foreign Affairs Comment

WWII bomber, ideal for mapping missions, is no match for a 1954-type enemy fighter, particularly with the enemy plane initiating aggressive action. The loss of one of our crew, owing to entanglement in his parachute, is lamentable.

THE REDS' PRETENSE of a desire for peace, simultaneously with this overt action above Hokkaido and the scarcely less overt action in Indo-China, continues to impress the gullible. Therefore it is pleasant to note that now and then a British Conservative rises in protest against the Laborite disposition to let bygones be bygones in the relations with Red China. "When does a bygone become a bygone," one of them demanded of Mr. Clement Attlee this week. "Is it while the corpses are still warm?" There is, fortunately, a growing awareness in Britain that the Indo-China prospect is a grave one, and that not a great deal of time remains to the West if the remainder of Indo-China is to be saved from engulfment by the Reds.

FAR EAST ECONOMICS were discussed in extremely plain terms this week by Premier Shigeru Yoshida of Japan, during his Washington visit. He offered the view that the West must initiate financial aid throughout the Far East on a much larger scale than America's own grants up to now, offering a comparison of the Orient's present situation with that of western Europe when the Marshall Plan was initiated. He mentioned the considerable figure of $4,000,000,000 a year.

U. S. COAST GUARD

Secretary of The Treasury—George M. Humphrey
Commandant—Vice Adm. Alfred C. Richmond

AMERICANS must be made to realize that a strong merchant fleet as an adjunct to military power is essential to bar aggression, according to RADM. H. C. Shepherd, USCG.

He made the statement before an audience of 1,000 in attendance at the Honor dinner-dance of the Robert L. Hague Merchant Marine Industries Post 1242 of the American Legion, in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, on 6 November.

His speech was delivered following the Legion's presentation to him of its Distinguished Service Medal for 1954. The Medal is awarded annually for "outstanding achievement" in behalf of the American Merchant Marine. Last year, the award was made to Senator Leverett Saltonstall, (R-Mass.).

Army Officers May Ask Ranger-Airborne Training

All Army officers who attend a course at the Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga., on temporary duty status may now volunteer for either ranger or airborne training upon successful completion of their course.

Requests for either airborne or ranger training must be submitted at least six weeks prior to completion of course at the Infantry School and have the concurrence of the student's unit commander. They must be qualified for the training under Department of the Army Pamphlet 20-21 dated June 1954.

Most officers cannot attend ranger and airborne courses consecutively. However, an exception will be made for newly commissioned Regular Army officers of Infantry, Armor, Artillery, Corps of Engineers and Signal who may be permitted to attend the ranger and airborne training consecutively in order to economize on travel funds.

USAFE Conducts Vigorous Program To Boost Vital Community Relations

multiple effect of saving money for the United States, releasing military personnel for Air Force duty elsewhere, and helping the local communities.

On the money side, "Native Son," by employing civilian residents, has produced the same work for less money. The average payment, including all of USAFE's countries, is about $1,200 a year, while an American airman, including his pay, cost of clothing, maintenance, housing, etc., represents about $4,500 a year.

Obviously "Native Sons" can not be used in all positions. They must be thoroughly screened. But they are valuable as automobile and truck drivers, in non-sensitive clerical positions, in handling supplies and in many other needed jobs.

From a community relationship standpoint, this not only gives needed employment to many residents of the community, it also helps the local merchants through the greater purchasing power thus provided.

The command now has 35,800 employed under "Native Son" as compared with 18,000 a year ago.

The money spent by USAFE is another great factor. USAFE's budget totalled $745,500,000 in fiscal year 1954 and $761,900,000 in 1955. A substantial portion is spent locally.

For example in construction alone $25,700,000 was spent in the United Kingdom in 1954; $68,500,000 in France; $67,500,000 in French Morocco, and $14,200,000 in Libya. Construction in Germany is being financed by the German government as a form of reparations.

Procurement, both centralized at depots and local at the bases, ran to $143,700,000 in the United Kingdom; $7,400,000 in France; $5,800,000 in French Morocco; $4,400,000 in Germany; $3,100, 000 in Italy, and $1,600,000 in Libya.

Air Force pay represents another sizable chunk of money. This amounted to $108,000,000 in the United Kingdom; $49,700,000 in France; $30,500,000 in French Morocco; $74,800,000 in Germany, and $2,700,000 in Italy.

Comparing these expenditures with the amounts spent by the much-sought-after American tourists' trade, one notes that the Air Force spent $277,600,000 in the United Kingdom while U. S. tourists there left only $70,000,000. In France the Air Force spent $123,700,000 against the tourists' $56,000,000.

In fact, the USAFE's expenditures in its nations equalled more than a fifth of the FOA program in the same period.

To promote local relations, General Tunner has had civil affairs officers appointed at the various bases. These are local residents who serve in a liaison and advisory capacity to help smooth the contacts between the civilian governments and populace and the military.

No opportunity is spared to foresee problems. Recently when new North American F86D Saberjets arrived, the noise problem (no stranger to the United States) loomed strong. USAFE headquarters invited reporters from the German newspapers to attend a demonstration of the might (and noise) of the aircraft and to brief them on what is being done to ease the strain on the local residents. As far as possible, flying will be restricted to those hours when it will be least annoying. They will maintain an altitude of at least 2,000 feet over cities. The flight pattern, designed by the Germans themselves, has been adjusted to steer aircraft from the largest centers of population. The German newspapermen, thus informed, will be better able to interpret to their people the power and importance of the noisy weapon, and hence the necessity of its operation, and what is being done to keep it subdued.

Another important step was taken in Weisbaden by General Tunner. The command headquarters was formerly housed in 23 requisitioned buildings in the downtown area. This was inconvenient for the functioning of the command and it deprived the Germans of 23 badly needed office buildings. General Tunner located an old German Army casern—the Gersdorf Casern—away from the downtown area. It was sturdily built, so it did not take much money to make the necessary repairs, repainting, etc. His entire headquarters were moved out to the Casern (Lindsey Air Base) thus restoring the 23 buildings to the businessmen of Weisbaden.

Americans will continue to live by themselves in Germany—in fact the new apartment developments with their own schools, stores and theaters are virtually American compounds. But conditions are improving and there are high hopes that the better understanding of each others problem being developed will pay dividends when the transition of our status in Germany takes place under the new treaty.
